

Cyprus Peace Delay

U Thant Postpones His Appeal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A last-minute hitch was reported today in an agreement among Cyprus, Greece and Turkey to end the recent threat of war. Cyprus was said to be holding it up.

Secretary-General U Thant delayed an appeal to the three that was supposed to produce responses constituting the settlement. He held separate conferences with their U.N. delegates.

Cyrus Vance, President Johnson's special envoy, canceled plans to fly home from Athens. A U.S. delegation spokesman said his task was not finished, he was resuming visits to capitals and would be in Nicosia by Saturday.

Thant's move was designed to lessen the prospect of adverse Greek public reaction. It was believed the Greek people would be less aroused by a positive response to an appeal to Thant than by outright capitulation to Turkey's demands.

Thant in his appeal was to call for the terms worked out by the three international peace-makers who shuttled back and forth between Athens and Ankara this week, informants said.

Major points include the withdrawal of Greek and Turkish regular army troops stationed illegally on Cyprus, Greek compensation for Turkish Cypriots killed in fighting on the island Nov. 15, and an end to Turkey's threat to invade the island 40 miles off its southern coast.

While disposing of the immediate issues, such an agreement would not settle the basic differences which brought the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish Cypriot minority to civil war in 1963 and has kept the island in a state of armed truce since a U.N. peace force intervened the next year.

The 1963 civil war was set off by the abrogation of the special political rights given the Turkish Cypriots in the 1960 agreements which freed Cyprus from British rule. Once the British were gone, President Makarios insisted on majority rule for his Greek Cypriots. Now the Turkish Cypriots have revived their demand for partition of the island between the two ethnic communities.

Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, returned to his headquarters in Brussels.

Find Leads To Solution Of Vandalism

Substantial leads to a solution of window-breaking vandalism at Biederman's, West Highway 50, have been obtained, according to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax whose department has been conducting an investigation. Some adults and a juvenile are supposed to be involved. Further information about disposition of the matter will be released later.

The Biederman store had windows broken twice in one week, on Tuesday night Nov. 21 when two windows were damaged and again on Wednesday night Nov. 22, when several windows were damaged by gun fire. Damages at the time were estimated at $1,400.

According to information, Fairfax said there were supposed to have been four persons in a car on the night of November 22, and as the car passed the building, one person fired a rifle in the direction of the store.

Missourians Killed in War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Missourians were listed among the dead in Vietnam in Thursday's Defense Department report.

Army Pfc. David W. Wooden, son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Wooden, of Higginsville, has been killed in action.

Two men were changed from a listing of missing to one of dead from hostile causes. Both were Army personnel from St. Louis. Spec. 4 Lemuel T. Williams, son of Mrs. Lenora C. Williams, and Pfc. Nathaniel Thompson, son of Mrs. Willie L. Thompson.

Personal Greeting

Judge E. W. Couey, who celebrated his 101st birthday Thursday, is presented here with a personal greeting from Robert M. Ball, commissioner of the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md. Delivering the greeting is Miss Erna Ann McClure, claims representative from the Social Security District office. The message to Judge Couey read: "Another year has passed and it is again my pleasure to send you my warmest greetings on your 101st birthday. May peace and contentment be with you in the year ahead, and may you find continued joy in your rich store of memories. Sincerely yours, Robert M. Ball, Commissioner." The presentation was made at a birthday party for Judge Couey held at Third National Bank. (Democrat-Capitol photo.)

Greet Judge at 101

By Hazel Lang

Judge Eugene W. Couey, 1020 West Fourth, who added another year to his century of life Thursday, Nov. 30, was presented a birthday card by Miss Erna Ann McClure, of the Social Security Administration. The presentation was made at a birthday party held for Judge Couey at Third National Bank. Judge Couey was also introduced to Mrs. Allan (Mildred) Stahl, of Syracuse, an employee of the bank, as the daughter of a couple he married 50 years ago when he was probate judge. The judge was then told the couple was Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Homan.

William A. Schien, 1220 South Barrett, a member of the board of directors of the bank, and Judge Couey exchanged congratulations during their conversation. It was also the birthday of Schien, his 59th.

The two-tier white cake was decorated with the figure "101," representing his age.

Judge Couey recalled he was one of the first "customers" when the bank opened, and told how he put his extra "few" nickels in the bank. "I remember when the bank opened, I was working for the telegraph company, and had to go back and forth to the bank several times a day."

At the presentation of the card from Commissioner Ball, Judge Couey, recalled that he thought the Social Security program was a good thing and that it would work when it went into effect, but he didn't give a thought to the fact that he might someday benefit by it, for so long.

Most of his life he practiced law, but the thing that brought him the credits that entitled him to Social Security was acting as chairman on the parole board for the State of Missouri. He served on the board 10 years, having been appointed first by Governor Donnelly, then by Governor Smith and then again by Governor Donnelly. Today the Social Security check means a lot to him, and he is glad he was able to qualify for it.

Born in Sedalia 101 years ago, Judge Couey grew up here, attending Franklin, Prospect and Broadway Schools during those years and also a rural school at Georgetown. After high school he attended the University of Missouri.

A couple of years ago he fell and broke his hip, but you can't keep a good man down, not for long. He got along just as well as any young fellow would have, and soon he was out and about again. At the family home is one daughter, Edyth Couey, and living in town is another daughter, Tropha Bockelman. A son, Lawrence, lives in Fayette.

Probably there is no one at any age who enjoys himself more than Judge Couey. He likes to talk, he likes to laugh, he likes to read and listen to the radio. He is in good health and he will probably be looking for Erna Ann to come out again next year with another birthday card.

Assumes Helm Of College

Fred Davis, former director of Junior Colleges for the State Department of Education, Friday assumed his official duties as the first president of the Community Junior College in Sedalia.

William Hopkins, chairman of the board of trustees for the college, said Davis' first duties would involve screening candidates for the positions of dean of administration, business manager and secretary.

The college will have its temporary offices at 2111 West Broadway, Hopkins said. He added that Davis would also begin to seek temporary classroom space for the college, to serve until a permanent location is found.

Hopkins added that most of the college faculty would be hired next spring.

Davis expects to move his family from Jefferson City as soon as adequate housing is found, Hopkins said.

MoPac Plea to Drop KC-St. Louis Service

Passenger Trains Subject of Appeal

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — While one service suspension is still pending, Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. today asked state permission to abandon the last of its passenger service between St. Louis and Kansas City.

The Public Service Commission had been expected to rule some time this month on the abolition of one passenger train each way daily between the two cities. The request for permission to abandon the other four train schedules, two each way daily, came as a surprise.

Also pending before the commission is an application of the Norfolk and Western Railroad to abandon two passenger schedules, one each way, between St. Louis and Kansas City.

It is part of the continuing declaration by railroads that the once booming passenger service on the major lines no longer is a paying proposition—that motor cars, over the road buses and airlines are taking over the passenger business.

This fall the Post Office Department dropped rail postal service to a great extent and the loss of that revenue has been conclusive in some instances in which the roads have asked for the right to abandon train schedules.

The new schedules that Missouri Pacific wants to drop include:

No. 15 that leaves St. Louis at 2:30 p.m. and No. 16 that leaves Kansas City at 11:30 a.m.

No. 19 that leaves St. Louis at 12:15 a.m. and No. 18 that leaves Kansas City at 11:50 p.m.

Pending is the railroad's request to drop trains No. 14 that leaves Kansas City at 4 p.m. and No. 17 that leaves St. Louis at 8:50 a.m.

Shippers of freight that normally is carried on passenger trains and regular railroad passengers, such as veterans going to the veterans administration hospitals, protested against the abandonment of trains 14 and 17 at earlier public hearings.

Cities along the Missouri Pacific line also protested the loss of service. Attorneys for both sides were given time after the last hearing to file written arguments in that case. That could lead a decision on that case into next year.

Urges Major Changes In State Code

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Jefferson County clerk, Mrs. Eleanor Koch Rehm, urged the interim committee on elections and voter registration laws Thursday to do a "complete re-writing and updating" of the election code.

Among other suggestions, she recommended statewide registration counting of absentee votes along with regular ballots and more extensive use of electronic voting devices.

The interim committee on tourism chose Sen. Richard Southern, D - Monroe City, as chairman and Rep. William Fickler, D - Parkville, as vice-chairman. It planned a first working session after the legislature meets in special session Jan. 12.

Santa Claus In Parade

The annual Chamber of Commerce Christmas parade, complete with Santa Claus, starts at 10 a.m. Saturday. The parade will travel from its starting point at Broadway and Ohio, go north on Ohio to Main, from Main to Osage and then south to Fifth.

The parade is under the direction of the Chamber's Retail Division, with C. J. Chapman and James Callis, co-directors. E. G. Kehde, Jr., is parade chairman this year.

Chief of Police William E. Miller said Friday morning that parking on Ohio Street, between Broadway and Main, would be restricted Saturday morning.

The restriction will be in effect until after the Christmas parade, he said.

More Fighting At Con Thien

Thwarted Meeting With Red

SAIGON (AP) — Well-informed sources said today a meeting between U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and a high-ranking representative of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front was thwarted recently when South Vietnamese police arrested the Viet Cong emissary.

The U.S. Embassy issued a statement later saying: "Allegations about planned or actual meetings between high officials of the U.S. Embassy and representatives of the VC-NLF as reported by The Associated Press are false. The U.S. Embassy would, of course, not undertake any such contacts without the knowledge of the GVN (Government of South Vietnam)."

The "actual meetings" referred to in the statement apparently regarded reports from other sources that a meeting between U.S. officials and Viet Cong representatives did take place in a "neutral embassy" in Saigon within the last 10 days.

A Saigon newspaper said the proposed Bunker meeting was arranged by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency without letting the Vietnamese government know about it. A member of the South Vietnamese House of Representatives also implied that the CIA tried to set up a contact with the Viet Cong without advising the Saigon government.

The sources who reported the meeting that didn't come off said it was arranged for early in November but national police arrested the Communist envoy in Saigon before he reached the embassy.

The sources said it was believed the police did not know (See Thwarted, Page 4.)

searching for Red troops 2.4 miles northeast of Con Thien ran into heavy machine-gun and mortar fire from an entrenched North Vietnamese company, estimated at about 135 men.

Three more Leatherneck companies joined the battle, giving the Marines about 700 men. Maneuvering around the enemy's flank, the Americans drove the Communists out of their heavily fortified positions in a four-hour battle.

Field reports said 26 North Vietnamese and 15 Americans were killed and 54 Americans wounded in the fighting, which was at such close quarters that the Marines could not use their artillery.

The fighting broke a lull on the DMZ front during which the Communists had concentrated on new targets, chiefly allied outposts along South Vietnam's 400-mile-long land border with Cambodia. The enemy's aim on both fronts apparently is the same—to operate close to his supply trails and to draw Americans away from protection of more populous areas where the government's pacification program has been making progress.

At Bu Dop, three miles from the Cambodian border and 80 miles north of Saigon, an under-strength battalion from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division drove off a hard Red assault early Thursday reported today that a large Communist force was still facing it.

An American patrol bumped into the enemy lines just 75 yards from the end of the American air strip and pulled back from a Communist volley of sniper fire and claymore mines.

Convict Donates To Fund

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A Missouri State Penitentiary inmate, convicted on robbery and burglary charges, has donated $5 to the Primitivo Garcia fund. A number of prisoners "are appalled at this type of a crime, where a human life is endangered, or at times maimed, for no apparent reason at all, let alone for a monetary gain."

"Persons perpetrating this type of a crime are not criminals, but animals, as there is nothing I can do or say to show my reprehension at this type of a crime, my conscience dictates that I contribute to the Garcia fund. I only wish it could be more."

Harold R. Swenson, warden of the Jefferson City, Mo., prison, said the prisoner, who was unidentified, is serving 20 years on counts of first-degree robbery, second - degree robbery and second-degree burglary. Swenson said prisoners may donate each Christmas as much as $10 to their favorite charities.

Elsewhere, Sen. Edward Long, D-Mo., read a brief statement on the Senate floor Thursday commending the youth.

"In other American cities," Long said, "people have refused to come to the aid of their fellow man who was being attacked. But Kansas City will never forget Garcia, the young man who recognized his responsibility to society."

A suburban Parkville, Mo., housewife, Mrs. James Bachman, said she has contacted Long and Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., in a campaign to bestow citizenship on Garcia.

Mrs. Bachman said she also has called President Johnson with an informal request to make Garcia a citizen.

Says Con Game Tried In State

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A confidence game, variously offering persons named Walsh or Kelly information on a family estate in California on receipt of $6, was reported Thursday by the consumer protection division of the attorney general's office.

Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson's office also reported continued receipt by Missourians of "free" wigs if picked up personally in Philadelphia, Pa., or of delivery in Missouri on receipt of varying amounts of "handling charges."

The Pastor's Comment

By Harry Purviance, Minister First Christian Church

How often it has been said that the message of Christ is as modern as tomorrow's newspaper. The message of Christ is relevant to the time and conditions in which we live today. This message from the Master Teacher of Galilee speaks today to the multitude of problems faced by modern man.

Change is the keynote of today's world. Change primarily brought about by the knowledge explosion. Change in the way man lives, in the way he thinks and in the way he acts. Needless to say there are changes within the religious institution which has as its chief purpose the proclamation of the message of the changeless Christ. The Church in its effort to reach out to serve man where he is has become concerned about everything that happens to man; such as what happens at work, what happens at home, what happens when young men are called upon to give their life in a monstrous war. So the Church has moved out beyond the sacred walls of the sanctuary and into the streets. This is good, this is as Jesus would have it. I believe. However, we must understand that we cannot equate our ideas on matters that have produced controversy in our society with ultimate truth. Our ideas, which we believe will right the social the evening service when Rev. Perry will continue his messages concerning the book of Revelations. The title will be "The Rich Church."

Trinity Lutheran Church, 32nd and Southwest Blvd., will observe the First Sunday in Advent with a worship service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. The pastor, the Rev. Paul O. Doering, will speak on the subject of "The Advent to Come."

Harmony Baptist Association will share in a Mass Training Union Rally at the First Baptist Church, Sedalia, at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The "M" Night Program is a Convention wide affair, which will be observed in all 50 states.

The theme for the occasion is "Every Christian Trained to Minister."

The feature for the evening is a pageant under the direction of Clark Baker, Associational Training Union Director.

wrongs of society may be right solutions, may be Christ-like in motivation and nature and they may not. We must continually go to the basic source, the life and message of Jesus, who is the Christ, to find "the truth."

Many would forsake the institutional Church in this modern day, with the statement that "the Church no longer serves." I find it hard to understand why we are so determined to forsake the Church which has been and is the "proclaimer" of the truth revealed in Christ. Sure the Church has its shortcomings, and its many failings, but it is made up of men who have shortcomings and failings. The church is the instrument for the work of Christ in our world, even in our "modern world." It demands the participation and dedication of people who are committed to the Christ and concerned that the eternal truths of his message are proclaimed in this modern day, so that the multitudinous problems facing society can find meaningful, truthful and helpful solutions.

PACKAGING PRAYERS
CHICAGO (AP) — To get away from vague, sometimes clumsy adlib prayers, and to enable worshippers to share in them, pastors would do well to model their prayers on the style of advertising writers, a Methodist minister advises.

"Using words in meaningful ways demands... the care and precision of the advertising world," the Rev. Dr. Stanley J. Menking, of Haddonfield, N. J., writes in Christian Advocate. He recommends that public prayers be written out in advance to be concise, clear—and brief.

THE NEWS in Brief

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials at Highland Park zoo have a puzzle—and long wait—on their hands.

They think a female polar bear has given birth.

"We've heard sounds in the den," Howard R. Hays, director, said Wednesday. "And we're pretty darn sure she was pregnant."

But officials can't confirm their suspicion. Hays said, because the female is hibernating and, at the slightest disturbance, would destroy any cubs. "We'll just have to wait until she gets hungry in spring and comes out—with or without cubs," he said.

Escape Equipment
LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska's new executive airplane has some special emergency equipment—a can opener.

Attached to the opener is a red tag reading: "For emergency use only."

It all came about when State Aeronautics Director Howard Vest and state pilots Jon Auer and Bob Heilig went to Oklahoma City to pick up the plane. When the pilots climbed aboard for a routine check, they found themselves locked inside because of a malfunctioning door lock.

They had to use an emergency hatch to escape. The "special equipment" appeared unannounced a few days later.

Neap Tide
When the sun and moon act directly against each other, as they do at the first and third quarters of the moon, the high-water level of the tide stands at its lowest point. This is called a neap tide.

Foresees New Trends In Catholic Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Weighing the evidence on the horizon, a noted Roman Catholic sociologist has projected the coming shape of that church in America. And he says the results add up to change "with a vengeance" but "no signs of revolt."

The prospects, he adds, are "half gloomy, half hopeful."

The Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, senior study director of the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center, in analyzing recent data on trends in the church, foresees these developments:

—Popular participation in election of bishops.

—General Catholic acceptance of the use of birth control devices, resulting from a "credibility gap" that has developed about the church's teachings on sexual morality.

—A "sharp increase in the antieretical feelings" of Catholics, particularly among right-wing conservatives.

—A church organizational style similar to that of Protestantism.

—Greater flexibility in worship forms, under pressure from spreading experimental movements.

—An increase of the so-called "underground" new communities, outside traditional parish bounds, with recognition increasingly accorded them.

—An uncertain future for clerical celibacy, with no clear indications that the rule against marriage for priests will be abandoned soon.

—Continued tensions over doctrinal and devotional matters, but no mass apostasy or heresy.

"American Catholics are changing their minds about many things, but they are not losing the faith and they are not leaving the Church," Father Greeley emphasizes. "Nor are they likely to in the foreseeable future."

Father Greeley, 39, has for five years headed the research center, gathering and assessing material on Catholic outlooks, particularly in the fields of education and youth.

In a new book, "The Catholic Experience: An Interpretation of the History of American Catholicism," published by Doubleday, he offers an intimate portrayal of the church's development.

He also lectures widely, and writes a column for Catholic newspapers. In a recent series of them, he drew together the various findings about church trends to deduce what will happen to the institution in the next 25 years.

ANGOLA SQUEEZE

NEW YORK (AP) — Protestant missions are gradually facing extinction in Portugal's western African possession of Angola, with the number of missions there down to about 65 from over 250 in 1961, the National Council of Churches reports.

What Should We Teach?

From Matthew 28: 19-20 We find that Jesus tells us to teach all nations and "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you".

He did not tell us to teach or observe human creeds, ism's, or any other man-made plan of worship. We are to teach just as He tells us.

God gave us the Bible. It is complete. It is sufficient. It is perfect.

Could Bolster Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators who oppose U.S. war policies in Vietnam are considering favorite son presidential primary races, campaigns which could bolster the White House bid of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana and George S. McGovern of South Dakota said favorite son campaigns are a possibility—and both added they generally agree with McCarthy's opposition to current U.S. policy in Vietnam.

A favorite son candidacy is a tactic to hold national convention delegations together most often used by state politicians who frequently aren't serious candidates themselves.

McCarthy, a Minnesota Democrat, announced Thursday he will challenge President Johnson's expected renomination bid in 1968 on a platform of disagreement over Vietnam policy.

Vietnam-oriented campaigns by Hartke and McGovern would broaden the political confrontation outlined by McCarthy.

But neither senator would say whether he would attempt to deliver his state's presidential support to the Minnesotan should he become a favorite son.

McCarthy listed four primaries as certain targets. They are Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and California.

He said he also will enter the contests in either New Hampshire or Massachusetts—or possibly both.

"I just hope he stays out," said Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H. "It's a lot of hard work for us if he doesn't."

New Hampshire holds the nation's opening presidential primary next March 12, and McIntyre said neither he nor Democratic Gov. John W. King now plans to enter the race as a Johnson representative. Both are Johnson backers.

"Of course, we can always adjust our plans," McIntyre said, should McCarthy enter the New Hampshire race.

"But neither the governor nor I am anxious to get into this thing as a stand-in," added McIntyre. In Concord, N.H., King told newsmen he sees no real threat to Johnson from McCarthy.

There were indications McCarthy may skip New Hampshire anyhow. He said it might conflict with his schedule for an overseas trip next winter, a journey that may include a stop in Vietnam.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., avoided any discussion of McCarthy's possible entry in his state's April 30 primary.

McGovern said he told McCarthy he would think about a possible favorite son race in the South Dakota primary June 4. He said he will make no decision before January, when state Democratic leaders confer.

Will Revoke Passport Of Carmichael

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it plans to lift the passport of Stokely Carmichael but knows of no other punishment in store for the Black Power firebrand.

Press officer Carl Barch said the only penalty Carmichael faces is surrender of his passport for traveling to Cuba last summer without State Department validation.

Carmichael told newsmen Thursday in Oslo, Norway, that he'll be arrested on returning to the United States and jailed for up to five years.

Carmichael, former chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said he intends to return home after today's final session in Oslo of Bertrand Russell's so-called war crimes trial, at which he is serving on the jury.

the purpose of the Viet Cong agent's visit to Saigon, but the agent "spilled the beans" after he was questioned.

The embassy also denied a report from other sources that Viet Cong representatives did meet in a "neutral embassy" in Saigon within the past 10 days with Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the deputy U.S. military commander in Vietnam; Deputy U.S. Ambassador Eugene M. Locke and Capt. Robert J. O'Brien, in charge of the embassy security guard.

The Liberation Front representatives were Le Van Huan and Huong Van Le, these sources said.

The meeting took place while Ambassador Bunker and the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, were in Washington.

The presence of Abrams indicated the meeting had something to do with military matters, possibly with the coming Christmas and New Year's cease-fires, or perhaps in connection with a prisoner exchange.

The reports of the contacts between the embassy and the Viet Cong come on the heels of indications from captured documents that the Viet Cong may be trying to set up talks with the United States to seek a coalition government for South Vietnam.

The leaders of the South Vietnamese government are adamantly opposed to a coalition government and would be highly annoyed if the United States tried to meet separately with the Viet Cong.

One source said the meeting with Bunker that didn't come off had been arranged by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, perhaps without Bunker's knowledge.

'Draft Card' Burners Usually Chicken Out

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft chief Lewis B. Hershey says he isn't getting as many draft cards as he expected from Vietnam war protesters—but he is receiving plenty of drivers' licenses.

About three of four cards he receives from protesters turn out to be drivers' licenses or other nondraft cards, Hershey said Thursday.

"I suppose I'm a trusting soul," the 74-year-old Selective Service System director said. "When I read in the newspaper that somebody said he turned in his draft card, I suppose he did."

"But it was surprising to me, the low number of real draft cards that were turned in," added the lieutenant general in a telephone interview. "I'm a little disillusioned, but I must say I'm happy to be disillusioned about this."

He cited as an example the "baskettful, about a thousand" draft cards that leaders of the Oct. 21 protest march on the Pentagon claimed they were turning in.

Only 297 persons actually turned in valid cards, the Justice Department said, after it sorted them out.

"There have been times when 90 per cent were not real cards," Hershey said. "They turn in all kinds of things."

Hershey said he could provide no nationwide figures on the number of legitimate cards turned in because those sent to state draft officials or other government agencies are passed along to the appropriate local boards without going through his office.

Hershey said many of the phony cards apparently come from "kids in a group" who put something in the bag so they won't look bad to their friends.

"A lot of them participate in these protests until it starts to pinch," was Hershey's opinion, referring to penalties for mutilating or throwing away draft cards.

Burning one—a violation of federal law—could result in up to 5 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Returning one—failure to carry it as required by draft regulations—can result in a delinquency ruling, a 1-A classification and immediate "greetings" from Uncle Sam.

But card-burning is hard to prove since the evidence goes up in smoke.

Since Aug. 30, 1965, when the law took effect, the Justice Department has investigated uncounted card-burning cases and ended up filing charges in only 21. There were 14 convictions and 2 dismissals upon other convictions.

Two other cases were dismissed because the defendants were found to have mental disorders. Three cases are awaiting trial.

Card-dropping is easier to prove, but since final action is up to each protector's local draft board the national draft headquarters has no detailed figures.

Gains in Pacification Noted By Computers

SAIGON (AP) — Two thirds of South Vietnam's 17 million people now live in secure areas controlled by the Saigon government, U.S. mission's computers say.

The U.S. Embassy today unveiled its new computerized Hamlet Evaluation System—or HES—and said the "secure" population has increased more than a million since last January.

Ambassador Robert W. Komer, who heads the American side of the pacification program, told a news conference that HES provides a detailed monthly check on the campaign for the Allegiance of the South Vietnamese living in the country's 12,600 cities and hamlets.

A checklist on 18 major criteria is filled out on computer cards for each hamlet by the U.S. district adviser and put through computers in Saigon and Bangkok, he said, enabling the allies to get a good idea of where the "other war" stands.

In addition to hamlet security, the cards include information on such matters as schools available, development projects, health facilities and even whether the hamlet chief sleeps in the hamlet at night.

Pointing out that human evaluators weren't even sure how many hamlets were in South Vietnam before HES went into operation last January, Komer said the new system is "not even near perfect, but it's more objective, more systematic and it focuses on the key aspects of pacification."

"I think it's getting a pretty accurate picture," he added. HES evaluates hamlets on an A-to-E scale, A hamlets being most secure, E the least.

Only 8,650—or 63 per cent—of South Vietnam's 12,600 hamlets can be evaluated. The rest are controlled by the Viet Cong. But Komer said population figures are more important than the number of hamlets considered secure because the hamlets vary in population from 50 to 20,000 persons. Saigon and other large cities are classed as a group of hamlets.

He said government-controlled hamlets tend to be larger and more prosperous since the government gives higher priority to more heavily populated areas.

Secure hamlets are those in the A, B and C categories. They now embrace 66.6 per cent of the population. Contested, or D and E hamlets account for 16.2 per cent of the population, while another 17.2 per cent lives under Viet Cong control, according to HES.

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP) — The Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society has announced that its annual "workshop"—or cocktail party—will begin this year at 4 p.m. Dec. 15 and is scheduled to end at 10:30 a.m. the next day.

That will be on the eve of the celebration Dec. 17 of the 64th anniversary of the first airplane flight by the Wright brothers.

The motto of the society is: "Birds fly; men drink."

The society was founded nine years ago as a spoof on the Kill Devil Hills Memorial Society, which sponsors the Wright brothers observance.

Stocks Are the Best Christmas Present Yet

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — How can you give your children a Christmas gift that will "combine sentiment with good sense, show thought, and add excitement and involvement to life?"

Give them a football, you say? Perhaps. But the correct answer, says the New York Stock Exchange, which poses the question, is to "put stock in their stockings."

Once again the exchange is urging its member firms to promote Christmas sales, especially as gifts to minors, but also as donations to employees and relatives.

The exchange promotion, which statistics indicate is successful, illustrates a tendency among some affluent Americans to buy investment gifts as well as objects, to give U.S. Savings Bonds, insurance policies, stocks and small bank accounts to youngsters.

Added to the investment list this year, of all things, are one-square-foot plots of land in Old England at $10 each. The deeds guarantee access to the plots at Castle Goring, Sussex, but forbid hunting or building.

The beauty of such investment gifts is that they usually grow rather than diminish in value.

One of the problems in giving such gifts, however, has been the dreary appearance of a securities certificate, a piece of paper that looks as merry on Christmas morning as a bill from the dentist.

This slight drawback now has been overcome through the use of bright, informative cards congratulating the recipient on having been given a share in America or, in the case of the British land, an elaborate scroll —bigger than the plot—in gold and heraldic colors.

Through promotional efforts such as these the exchange now estimates that around 1.5 million minors now own stocks, almost wholly through gifts or inheritances.

But there are far more basic reasons as well for the spurt in stocks as gifts: liberalizing legislation, big tax benefits, a steady rise in the disposable income of families.

Legislation approved by all 50 states now permit a parent to buy, sell, collect dividends and reinvest stock issued in a child's name, with the only restrictions being those of normal prudence.

The tax advantages are worth noting. First, any gift up to $3,000 is exempt from the donor's gift tax. For parents, this means they can transfer $6,000 to their children without paying gift taxes.

Second, the income from the gift, that is the dividends and capital appreciation, is payable not by the parent but by the child. This means that the first $600 of profit is excluded automatically. And the parent retains the child as an exemption.

A Splashy Way To Go Fishing

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The "Overseas Highway," U.S. 1, has 42 bridges in the Florida Keys and most of them have wooden catwalks for fishermen.

So it was only natural that Frank E. Tropeano grabbed a bucket of bait and vaulted over the guardrail of Tom's Harbor bridge to do some fishing.

A passing boat pulled him out of the water 15 minutes later. Tom's Harbor is one of the few bridges without a catwalk.

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The Boeing Co. has awarded a contract for the manufacture of passenger entertainment and service multiplexing systems for its 747 superjetliner.

Ten audio channels for music or information, two audio channels for each passenger compartment's visual entertainment system and a master override channel for announcements from the captain or flight crew are included.

The $20 million contract went to Instrument Systems Corp., Long Island, N.Y. The 747 is due to start flying late in 1968.

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Joe Eicher thinks stamp collecting is fine—if the collectors wait until the letter is delivered.

His philatelic dilemma began when he used old-issue stamps to mail a Christmas letter to two nieces and a nephew—all avid stamp collectors—in Brussels, Belgium.

For the 13 cents postage, he used two old 5-cent stamps and a George Washington 3-cent. The letter came back, postage due, with the two 5-cent stamps missing.

He put two more old stamps on it and mailed it again. It came back again, postage due, two stamps missing.

Still two more old stamps were licked, and once again the letter was returned, this time with only one gone.

The postman told Mrs. Eicher the Post Office Department would put on a stamp and send it on its way.

Senate For UN Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved without dissent a call for United Nations action on the Vietnam war but delayed a vote on a proposal to protest Secretary of State Dean Rusk's refusal to testify publicly on the war.

The resolution, adopted Thursday by an 82-0 vote, expresses the sense of the Senate that President Johnson consider directing this country's U.N. representatives to seek action by the world body on the Vietnam issue.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who sponsored the resolution, said there is urgent need for Johnson to seek U.N. involvement in an attempt to find peace.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he doesn't know whether the U.N. can be effective on Vietnam but "the United States has no choice but to take every road that might lead to peace."

Fulbright's committee put off action Thursday on the proposal that it protest formally Rusk's refusal to discuss the war at a public hearing. Rusk has maintained a more valuable exchange would come at a closed session but the State Department said Thursday he hasn't decided whether to appear at a public session.

Fulbright said while there was a strong feeling Rusk should answer questions in public, committee members were split on how far to press the issue.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., sponsored the motion that would have authorized Fulbright to take the issue directly to the President.

It was uncertain when the committee would take up the motion again.

Dismal Train Statistics

What have the railroads got against the traveling public?

Not a thing, any more than the village smithy disliked horses. The gradual disappearance of passenger trains, like that of horsedrawn carriages, is simply a consequence of changing times, tastes and technologies.

Take the automobile—as almost everyone does these days. Just as it put the blacksmith out of business and sent interurban trolley lines into bankruptcy, so the automobile has all but killed short- and medium-run passenger train service.

According to the Interstate Commerce Commission, 89.15 per cent of all intercity traffic in the United States in 1966 was by means of the private automobile. That percentage can only go higher as the 41,000-mile Interstate Highway network nears completion.

As for the remainder of intercity travel, railroads were low man on the pole with 1.87 per cent. Buses accounted for 2.48 per cent and airlines 6.18 per cent.

It is the airplane and economics that bid fair to finish off the passenger train completely — with an assist from the Post Office Department in its decision to stop sending mail by rail.

Consider this comparison presented by William J. Quinn, president of Burlington Lines:

The Burlington's California Zephyr, operating between Chicago and Denver, averages more than twice as many passengers as does a 727 jet — 166 to 72 — and could carry more if they were available.

But while the railroad has two fast trains between Chicago and Denver, the airlines operate some 22 flights daily, and so carry more passengers over-all.

Six crewmen, including stewardesses, operate the jet; 47 operate the train. Wage costs for the one are $391; for the other, $2,288.

The train's diesels burn $500 worth of oil; the jet consumes $300 worth of kerosene.

Total revenue for the Zephyr is slightly over $5,000 per trip. For the jet, it is slightly over $3,400. But expenses for the Zephyr add up to $5,400; for the 727, $2,500.

Thus for every trip the train makes, it loses about $400; for every trip the plane makes, it earns about $900.

Then there is the jet's speed, which is as pleasing to the accountant as it is to the traveler.

The jet makes the trip in two hours; the train in 18½ hours. In terms of revenue per hour, the jet earns nearly $500. The train loses some $20 an hour. For every passenger it carries, the plane earns $13.12 for the airline. For every passenger the train carries, the railroad loses $2.07.

And so, on and on.

Despite these dismal statistics, Quinn sees some sort of future for the passenger train — if the nation wants to spend the money for it. A high-speed, de luxe train operating along a crossing-free corridor between Boston, New York and Washington, and riding on cushions of air instead of wheels, is one possibility under study.

An entirely new form of technology like this is needed, says Quinn, if the passenger train is to offset the high-cost burden which is presently sending it toward the same fate as the passenger pigeon.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Disagree on Viet Cong Infiltration

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — One factor contributing to the exit of Secretary of Defense McNamara was a smoldering difference between the intelligence estimates on enemy troops by Gen. William Westmoreland and the intelligence estimates of the Pentagon.

Caught in the middle was Maj. Gen. Joseph Alexander McChristian, Westmoreland's former intelligence chief, who has now been transferred from Saigon to Fort Hood, Texas.

McChristian's estimates of Communist infiltration and recruitment were a constant source of annoyance to Secretary of Defense McNamara, who thought they were higher than they ought to be. He suspected the estimates might even have been deliberately inflated to justify Westmoreland's repeated requests for more manpower.

McNamara was anxious to avoid calling up the reserves or increasing the draft calls; therefore, he preferred to believe lower estimates of enemy strength. The Air Force also didn't like McChristian's figures, which implied that the bombing was hardly slowing down the infiltration.

Westmoreland, however, had a soldier's reluctance to underestimate enemy strength. It is always safer, he knew, to accept the maximum estimates.

—Deficient Jungle Watching—

Even at best, keeping watch on Viet Cong movements is extremely difficult. Trail watchers and sensory devices are used to measure the movement over the infiltration routes. But the Viet Cong can move an entire division through the dense jungle under the noses of our observers, who might not be able to detect any sign of a mass movement that passes within 1,500 yards of them.

Captured documents and prisoners also don't always give an accurate idea of enemy infiltration. North Vietnamese units, for example, often change their identification three or four times before they reach their assigned combat area in South Vietnam. Most of the prisoners are dull privates who can't keep up with all the changes.

Before the presence of a North Vietnamese unit is accepted as "confirmed," it must be reported by two independent sources. Thus, the infiltration of only a few hundred men is officially "confirmed" each month.

Westmoreland is obliged to rely upon estimates, based largely upon the count from our observation teams and electronic detectors. Intelligence specialists, who worked with McChristian, have told this column that his estimates were conservative. He insisted upon hard information and would never resort to guesswork in preparing his estimates. Privately, these specialists believe more North Vietnamese managed to infiltrate into the South than he ever counted.

Yet his infiltration estimates ranged around 10,000 a month in 1966, reached as high as 14,000 in June, 1966. He also estimated the Viet Cong recruitment in the South at around 7,500 a month.

Note — Whatever the correct figure, it's significant that in late 1964 before the United States bombing the North, the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops South was estimated at 2,000 a month. The bombing was started Feb. 7, 1965, to stop this infiltration. Since then infiltrating is estimated at a minimum of 5,000 to 6,000 a month and a maximum of 14,000.

—Pressure on McChristian—

There was subtle pressure on McChristian from the Pentagon to reduce his estimates, which he refused to do. He took more care, however, to back up his estimates with hard intelligence.

It is true that the number of "confirmed" infiltrators has dropped dramatically since 1966. One reason, however, is that North Vietnam has been sending down individual replacements rather than units. This makes it vastly more difficult to confirm from two sources the presence of a group of infiltrators.

Yet the "confirmed" rate is one of the factors that go into figuring the estimates. With McChristian in Texas, the "confirmed" countdown and the captured enemy documents which tell of increased problems, infiltration estimates have dropped to 5,000 to 6,000 a month. The Viet Cong recruitment rate is also estimated around 3,600 a month, about half McChristian's previous figures.

Some intelligence experts believe McNamara, who has seized upon the lower figures, is deluding himself. On the other hand there is evidence that the Viet Cong are having trouble keeping up their strength.

Note: A year ago, the Viet Cong battalions were taking such a beating that most experts believed that they would be broken up into smaller more elusive guerrilla bands. McChristian contended, however, that this would be such a major retreat that it would be an admission the Viet Cong believed they were losing. His appraisal has turned out to be correct.

U.S., Saigon Can Whip VC In the War for the Hamlets

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

If it is true, as the data seems to indicate, that the Ho Chi Minh apparatus in the south is being reorganized for a conventional, long-range underground insurgency, it opens an opportunity for U.S. and South Vietnamese government forces.

In the months immediately ahead, Americans and South Vietnamese have their best opportunity to date to make real gains in knocking out the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese political-economic-psychological warfare underground organization which is the real base of Communist strength in South Vietnam. This organization provides the intelligence, recruiting and logistics base on which the VC and North Vietnamese armies operate.

The underground organization, depleted in the past two years when the Communists thought a quick victory was in the offing, bumbled widely in its dealings with farmers and the city poor.

The new VC cadre, out to build a base for a long-term underground war, will have to mend fences in areas where second-rate VC cadre replacements of the past two years antagonized many people with crude terrorism, exorbitant tax collection and pompous arrogance.

The VC underground structure today is weak in many spots. These loopholes are being mended in the reorganization. But this will take time. Replacement of second raters with able men is not quickly done.

Thus the U.S.-South Vietnam opportunity is to act before Hanoi has time to rebuild the topflight organization it once had.

In this new situation, any "peace talks" in which Ho participated would be a maneuver to buy time to enable the new party underground to fix itself securely in place.

On our side, the VC-North Vietnamese underground rebuilding must be fought principally with U.S.-South Vietnamese civilian effort which must overtake in quality the military build-up of the past few years.

This doesn't require huge numbers of new U.S. personnel. Rather, it means small numbers of highly skilled, highly motivated, carefully picked men who have the ability to get along with other men.

For the job at hand is to work with and inspire—not dominate—Vietnam's villagers.

As a corollary, new types of Vietnamese leaders will have to be trained for work in the countryside, where the war will be won or lost. The traditional upper-class, white-shirted Vietnamese is not effective in farming communities. He must be replaced in the hamlets by local, young leaders chosen from among typical village families.

These leaders—who understand how the other half lives because they're from that group themselves—must be trained and sent back into the hamlets to match wits with the VC-North Vietnamese underground.

This new brand of men on our side will also create the basis for widened leadership in the hamlets when the war is won.

Swollen, Burning Tongue May Have Many Causes

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My sister, 49, has had a burning, sore, swollen tongue for over a year. She has been to three doctors who have given her vitamins and allergy shots but these haven't helped her. What would you advise?

A—A swelling or a burning pain in the tongue may be caused by a vitamin deficiency, iron deficiency, thyroid deficiency, anemia, excessive smoking, rough jagged teeth, allergy to lipstick, trichinosis or neuralgia. In many persons, however, the cause cannot be identified. The condition is commonly seen in women who are in their 50s and are emotionally high-strung. Fear of cancer may cause them to magnify the soreness in the tongue out of all proportion. In such cases, after a thorough examination to make sure no serious disease is present, a short course of tranquilizer often helps.

Q—Every morning on arising my tongue is heavily coated. What causes it and what can I do for it?

A—The cause is failure to eat enough food that requires much chewing—dry toast, raw carrots, raw apples and the like. Thorough chewing of these foods removes the coating of dead cells that is constantly accumulating on the surface of your tongue. If for any reason you can't eat these foods, you may use a small cloth to hold the tip of your tongue and brush the surface once or twice a day with a toothbrush.

Q—I have migratory glossitis or geographic tongue. What causes it? Is there any cure for it?

A—The cause of this patchy redness of the tongue is not known. The condition is not serious. The chances are that no one will know you have it if you don't brag about it. No treatment is required and it usually clears up in a few days, but it may return.

Johnson Keeping Politically 'Cool'

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is just beginning to get a taste of the fever of the 1968 presidential election year. To nobody's surprise, he is being very impassive about it. It would be bad politics to be otherwise.

The confusion over Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's departure from the Pentagon to be president of the World Bank had just begun to quiet down when Johnson's fellow Democrat, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, became his rival for the White House.

Also to nobody's surprise, since he had been murmuring about it for weeks, McCarthy announced he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968 with the war in Vietnam his main theme.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction over the war "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

At this point it is not likely many people, including McCarthy, think he has a chance to get the nomination away from Johnson although, if he can generate enough heat, somebody else might.

As he said: "If not me, then someone else."

But Johnson's reaction when he expresses it to those not close to him is a political cliché: that discussion is good for the country. To put it another way, he's not saying anything for publication at this time.

Just starting out there is a big difference between McCarthy and Johnson on the war.

McCarthy says he is not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to the war, which is about as vague as anybody can be, while suggesting a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U.S. forces.

Johnson, on the other hand, brims with confidence that the war has never been going better than now, that the North Vietnamese losses are putting terrible pressure on them, and that the pressure will continue.

McCarthy says he hopes his candidacy will lead Johnson to alter his Vietnam policy. He may think so, but Johnson himself shows not the slightest indication of it. And at this moment it is almost impossible to think he will.

If anything, he may make the war tougher but still not go as far the all-out view expressed this week by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a television interview.

There is a good reason for keeping some kind of leash on the fighting. For one thing, this country does not know whether North Vietnam has secret agreements with the Soviet Union and Red China requiring them to enter the war if the United States went as far as Eisenhower advocated.

In his statement explaining McNamara's leaving the Defense Department, Johnson, speaking of the war in Vietnam, said "our major defense policies are clearly defined."

A White House source said it would be fair to assume that the President's aim in saying that was to counter speculation that McNamara's departure might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

Maybe. If in the next few months the line got a lot harder the same White House source could say what Johnson said about "our major defense policies" being clearly defined were right when he said it in November but that new decisions were made later.

Johnson's praise of McNamara's service as secretary of defense has been of the highest order in public and even more lavish in private conversation. But if the relationship between the two men was excellent, one question still has not been answered:

McNamara told Johnson a couple of times, the last time in October, he'd like the job of president of the World Bank if the President didn't object to his going. Johnson, so far as is known, never discussed it with him again but recommended him for the job without directly telling McNamara who found out later from other sources that this had been done.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night I walked past the bathroom and there was my husband, sitting on the rim of the tub shaving his legs. I was pretty shocked at this sight and asked him what in the world he was doing. He replied, "I don't think the hair would look very good under my nylon hose."

Ann, I just couldn't believe my ears. I asked him when he planned to wear nylon hose. "Oh, tonight," he answered. "I'm in a little skit the lodge is giving. Tonight is a dress rehearsal. I'm Carmen" With that he reached for the artificial rose on the sking, put it between his teeth and began to do a Spanish dance, using his partial plate and a shoehorn as castanets.

He looked so utterly ridiculous that I walked into the bedroom and slammed the door. He left without saying good-bye so he is aware of my feelings. Now I need to know if I should insist that he drop out of the skit. I hate to see him make a jackass of himself. The skit will be given before lodge members and their families only, but there are about 200 of us. Please wire collect. — MRS. CARMEN

Dear Mrs.: If this is your husband's idea of fun, don't knock it, honey. I've heard from many wives who would be mighty pleased if their husbands changed hobbies with yours. Go to the meeting and laugh—if it kills you.

Dear Ann Landers: Please rearrange this letter and make it printable.

I need your advice but I can't take a chance on having your answer come to the house.

I am 17 years old and have already gone to bed with so many guys I cannot even remember all their names. I am not beautiful and my personality is on the quiet side, but I manage to attract boys and men of all ages. I never plan on going to bed with them, but it seems like I always wind up there.

Whenever a guy says a decent word to me I think I owe him whatever he asks for. I even find myself giving in to creeps just so they'll stop pestering me. I also give in to the pitiful types who don't appeal to me just because I feel sorry for them. I figure nobody else would and they must feel very rejected. At times I feel I'm just too kind-hearted for my own good. Other times I have a feeling I'm not normal.

Please give me some help. — EVERYBODY'S GIRL

Changes In TV Programs

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television programming, which has been wedded to fixed formulas for 15 years, is undergoing a small-scale revolution because of the popularity of feature films this season.

That is the outlook as seen from the vantage point of Herbert S. Schlosser, who as West Coast program vice president for NBC is one of the handful of men who decide what will appear on the home screen.

From the days of 12-inch screens, the half-hour program, particularly the situation comedy, has been a staple of television. This season the half-hours, particularly the new ones, have been hurting because of the competition of six nights of feature films on the networks.

"There will still be room for the half-hour show," observed Schlosser, "but the trend is toward fewer of them."

"There will probably be more hour shows and 90-minute shows as well. We have even considered a two-hour series, but that is something that will need to be carefully planned."

Why have feature films proved so popular this season?

"Because the audience has been getting a general run of bigger pictures," Schlosser theorized. "Many of them are only two years old, and that adds to the appeal."

"Also I believe the features are popular because the country is becoming more urban all the time. More people of higher income and upper middle-class watch them than most other programs. That helps make features attractive to sponsors."

Schlosser said NBC was the first to go into the field, beginning several years ago with Saturday Night at the Movies.

NBC has also pioneered with its world premiere films, created by Universal for first showing on TV. Eight were presented last season, two so far this year. All have scored as well or better than features that had already appeared in theaters.

Welfare Controversy Is Tied to Residency

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — In 1941, a unanimous Supreme Court decided California could no longer make it a crime to bring a poor man into the state.

California had argued to no avail that a huge influx of Depression migrants had increased the state's taxes and the cost of welfare outlays.

The California law, said Justice James F. Byrnes, posed an unconstitutional barrier to the interstate movement of "commerce"—which to the 1941 Court meant people as well as goods.

The states, said Byrnes, cannot write laws to isolate themselves "from difficulties common to all of them by restraining the transportation of persons and property" across their borders.

Now, 26 years later, the Supreme Court is being called upon to decide if the states can protect themselves against increased welfare costs by barring aid to new residents.

Three federal courts—in Connecticut, Delaware and the District of Columbia—have ruled out such residency requirements. Connecticut has appealed to the Supreme Court and Delaware, at least, is expected to join.

Elsewhere in the nation's courts the attack on residency barriers continues, with the open support of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Said Earl Johnson Jr., director of the OEO's Legal Services Program, after the Connecticut requirement had been struck down: "Once the challenge is made, the illegality has come clear. Hopefully, this process of refinement will continue."

The authorization for residency restrictions came with congressional enactment of welfare programs in 1935. In the case of aid to dependent children—the program specifically involved in the Connecticut appeal—states cannot impose waiting periods greater than one year without losing federal money.

Last year, according to government figures, $2,265,346,000 was spent on the aid to dependent children program, with the federal contribution — $1,299,940,000 — accounting for 57.4 per cent.

The latest figures, for July 1967, show 4,978,000 persons assisted.

There probably is no accurate way of determining how many would-be recipients were kept off the rolls by residency requirements. For one thing, explained Peter Smith, a lawyer with Neighborhood Legal Services here, social agencies advise the poor against applying when they know they haven't been in the state long enough to qualify.

To Meet Arkansas

MU Tigers Set For Cage Action

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 1 (Special) — Nonchalant Norm Stewart was seldom ruffled as a Big Eight stickout player in the mid-fifties — but the tall blond may be battling the "butterflies" — queasy stomach flip-flops — when his first Tiger team takes the court against Arkansas in Fayetteville Saturday afternoon.

Returning to his alma mater after six years as head coach at the University of Northern Iowa, Stewart is saddled with a rehabilitation job at Ol' Mizzou. Last year's club hit rock bottom with a 3-22 record, worst in the school's history — and finished in the league's cellar for the second year in a row.

Gone is the team's best shooter, Ron Coleman — a 20.4 marksman. None of five holdover lettermen, nor any of the sophomores are taller than 6-ft. 6 inches in a conference that returns such big buckaroos as Don Smith (6-8), Don Sidle (6-8), Nick Pino (7-0), and Vernon Vanoy (6-8). Eight of the loop's top ten scorers of last year return — but none are from Missouri.

Little wonder the 32-year-old coach may be just a bit jumpy ahead of his inaugural. But he's a stickler for the positive approach — a winning attitude. "Pride and confidence are the backbone of any team," he says. "We realize the players must adjust to our system, and our demands. But we have to develop a winning attitude. There is enough talent here to be a winner."

Stewart has designated three veterans and two newcomers for tip-off duty against the Hogs. He'll start Tom Johnson (6-4) at forward, and 6-6 Gene Jones at center. Sophomores Don Tomlinson (6-4) at forward and Pete Helmbock (6-5) at guard are set — while the fifth man will be either Dave Bennett (6-2) or Henry Pinkney (6-0) at a guard spot.

Tomlinson, a 19.1 scorer for the freshmen, will be handicapped in early games by a broken bone in his shooting hand, requiring use of a protective cast.

Johnson, streak-shooting lefty, averaged 12.8 last season — while the slender Jones carried a 12.1 average when grounded by grades at the semester.

Top reserves for the Bengals are likely to be: Tom Thoenen, 6-5 junior college transfer from Moberly's Greyhounds; sophomores Theo Franks (6-3), Chuck Kundert (6-6), and Reid Bailey (6-3). Thoenen was most valuable player in the 1967 junior college tournament at Hutchinson, Kan.

Arkansas won't give the Tigers any appreciable height problem — with three Hog starters listed at 6-ft. 5. However, an all-sophomore backup five features 6-8 center Bobby Vint, Like Mizzou, the Razorbacks had a standout (9-2) freshman club. This is an afternoon contest, starting at 2 o'clock.

Indiana, though, returns ten lettermen off last year's Big Ten co-championship squad — including three starters. "Butch" Joyner, all-league and the team's top scorer (18.5) and rebounder (10.5), is back — plus 5-10 guard Vern Payne and 6-8 center Bill DeHeer, a home-grown Missourian who prepped at Maplewood-Richmond Height high school. Payne averaged 15.7 — and DeHeer 9.1.

Other starting spots should be claimed by letterman Earl Schneider at forward — and a hotshot newcomer, 6-4 Joe Cooke, who averaged 26.7 points for the freshmen.

Probable Starters — Arkansas — David Self (6-5) F; Gary Stephens (6-5) F; James Eldridge (6-5) C; Jackie Kimbrell (6-2) G; Benton Cone (5-11) G.

Missouri — Tom Johnson (6-4) F; Don Tomlinson (6-4) F; Gene Jones (6-6) C; Pete Helmbock (6-5) G; Dave Bennett (6-2) or Gene Pinkney (6-0) G.

Indiana — Butch Joyner (6-4) F; Earl Schneider (6-4) F; Bill DeHeer (6-8) C; Vernon Payne (5-10) G; Joe Cooke (6-3) G.

TIPOFF — MU-ARK — 2 p.m. Saturday. Arkansas field house. MU-IND — 7:30 p.m. Monday, Brewer field house.

SJ's Will Have Busy Season

This year's December winds will be filled with soccer balls floating towards soccer poles at Liberty Park as the Sedalia Junior Kickers announced a six game schedule for the month.

The action will begin in Atchison Kansas this weekend with a 2:00 p.m. game Saturday at St. Benedict's College Stadium against Maur Hill Prep in their season opener. Sunday the two teams will play again, this time at the Prepers Home Field.

The newly formed SJ's forward line of Toni Barman, Rich Parker, Biol Balance, Harry Lambirth, and Monty Finley, who over the weekend managed a 3-1 victory over Belleville, Illinois, will try to tool a pair of wins over the Kansas teams' all-foreign-player scoring line.

On Dec. 6, in an evening encounter at Warrensburg, the Sedalia Kickers will open Winter League play against Central Missouri State's Club Soccer team. The CMSC team holds two victories over the locals, 4-3 and 3-0, both in early September play. Saturday, Dec. 9, the two teams will match kicks at Warrensburg again.

Mo. Valley's Club Soccer team will furnish the opposition for the Sedalia Kickers in their home opener in league play at Liberty Park, Dec. 10, at 2:00 p.m. This is a team with great speed and a team made up of many former St. Louis Amateur stars.

On a trip to Kansas City the St. Louis Kickers, a German soccer club, will stop off Dec. 16 for a game at Liberty Park. This team holds a season record of 13 wins, 3 losses and 2 ties, and is presently on an eight-game winning streak.

Montgomery Has Lead In Tournament

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Jack Montgomery went into the second round of the $35,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tournament today with a three-stroke lead.

The bespectacled Texan, one of 91 players to shoot par or better Thursday, blazed a trail of birdies in carding an eight-under-par 31-33—64 over the 6,550-yard Oakbourne Country Club layout. He missed only two greens and needed 28 putts. The course played extremely short because of a month-long drought.

Deadlocked for second place with 67s were Jack Burke, the greying onetime Masters and PGA champ who is an infrequent tourist these days, and four victory-hungry youngsters — John Lotz, Laurie Hammer, Jim McPhate, and Marty Fleckman, who recently turned pro after leading the third round at the U.S. Open as an amateur last summer.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round. Among those in danger of not making the cut is Doug Sanders, the Dallas dandy who has won $109,445 this year. He had a first-round three-over-par 75.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four Kansas City groups will follow up Seattle's pitch for ownership of 1969 expansion franchises in the American League today, and the National League will consider expansion at a more leisurely pace.

Seattle's group, known as Pacific Northwest Sports, headed by President Max Soriano, appeared at Thursday's league meetings while the Kansas City folks cooled their heels outside the door.

The National League, whose President Warren Giles repeatedly has said he expects no expansion timetable to be adopted here, has advised all interested parties to stay away. However, delegations from San Diego, Milwaukee, Dallas-Fort Worth and Buffalo are on the scene, distributing brochures and talking up their cities to anyone who will listen.

Unless there is an unexpected roadblock, the two leagues are expected to finish their individual meetings in time to hold their final joint session in late afternoon. The joint meeting originally had been scheduled for Saturday morning.

The manner of stocking the new franchises and the cost of the players to the new owners still is being kept quiet by the American League. In previous expansion moves, the costs averaged about $2 million but these are expected to be much more expensive.

"The plan for expansion will involve 30 players for each new team," said President Joe Cronin. "Chub Feeney (vice president of San Francisco) and Lee MacPhail (general manager of the New York Yankees) have worked out a plan for major league expansion."

The majors are due to consider a proposal to set maximum and minimum shares for World Series clubs in view of the comparatively small payoffs after the St. Louis-Boston Series last fall. One proposal would set a $10,000 minimum for winners and $7,500 for losers.

Another suggestion that the World Series be started on Saturday, instead of the traditional Wednesday date, has been deferred until the summer meetings. If adopted, it would not go into effect until 1969. This also would involve closing the season on Wednesday instead of Sunday.

The player market slacked off a bit Thursday but there were a few deals.

The Chicago Cubs, who tried 11 different right fielders last season, acquired 34-year-old Lou Johnson from the Los Angeles Dodgers in return for infielder Paul Popovich and minor league outfielder Jim Williams.

Johnson, hero of the Dodgers' 1965 pennant drive after he was brought up from the farm club following Tommy Davis' broken ankle, hit .270 last season with 11 home runs although he missed many games due to a broken ankle and a knee injury. Popovich hit .214 in 49 games with the Cubs and Williams batted .248 at Quincy, Ill., in the Midwest League.

Cincinnati dealt off right-handed pitcher Sammy Ellis, a disappointing 8-11 performer last season, to the California Angels for relief pitchers Bill Kelo, 5-3, and Jorge Rubio, 0-2, both right-handers. Manager Bill Rigney of the Angels promptly announced Ellis, who has balked at bull-pen duty, would be a starter.

The New York Yankees bought shortstop Gene Michael from the Dodgers for an unannounced sum of cash. Michael, hailed as the replacement for Maury Wills a year ago when he came to the Dodgers in the Wills' deal, failed and batted only .202.

The Boston Red Sox acquired right-handed pitcher Ray Culp from the Chicago Cubs for minor league outfielder Bill Schlesinger and an unspecified amount of cash.

Culp, who began his National League career with the Philadelphia Phils, was 8-11 last season. Manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox said that the 26-

Baseball Camp Feels Impact Of Arguments

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Major league baseball had a confusing, off-season rhubarb on its hands today between players and their owners.

"Somebody's lying. And I don't think it's the owners," said Paul Richards, general manager of the Atlanta Braves. "If this guy continues these kind of tactics we just might have to get into the gutter with him."

Three Top Teams Open '68 Season

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer Louisville, Princeton and Davidson, three of the nation's top ranked teams help usher in the college basketball season officially tonight, but most fans are looking ahead to the UCLA at Purdue game Saturday night.

UCLA, with towering Lew Alcindor back as a junior, was an unanimous choice in the preseason Associated Press poll to again win the national collegiate championship.

The big question with most fans is: How many games can UCLA win in a row? The Bruins unbeaten last season and will be after their 35th straight against Purdue.

The game marks the opening of Purdue's new 14,500-seat arena on the campus at Lafayette, Ind., and is in the nature of a homecoming for Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach.

A native of Martinsville, Ind., Wooden played basketball at Purdue and coached at Indiana State before going to UCLA where his teams have the national championship three times in the last four years.

Louisville, ranked third to UCLA in the preseason AP poll, opens at home against Georgetown, Ky. Princeton, ranked eighth, also opens at home against Army as does Davidson, No. 10, against Bucknell.

Louisville and Princeton, although playing under new coaches John Dromo and Pete Carril, respectively, are favored to win, but the Davidson Wildcats are a question mark.

The Wildcats beat out Indiana and Tennessee by a narrow margin for the last spot in the preseason Top Ten on the strength of reports they have their best team since Fred Hetzel.

Southern Illinois, the NIT winner last year, will play its first game as a major power at home against Sam Houston State.

Other major opening games tonight include Temple at Creighton, Richmond at Tennessee, Duke vs. Virginia Tech at Greensboro, N.C., Centenary at Oklahoma, Texas Tech at Colorado, New Mexico at Oregon, year-old Culp will fit right into Boston's starting rotation. Schlesinger hit .298 with Pittsburgh last season with 21 home runs and 81 RBI.

Richards was referring Thursday to Marvin Miller, former negotiator for the steelworkers who is now executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Miller and 21 players called an unusual news conference Thursday to express the players' "extreme dissatisfaction in the negotiations with the owners and representatives of the owners group."

The players gave the owners a "statement of policy" a year ago which demands, among other things, an increase in the minimum big league salary from $7,000 to $12,000 a year.

"Since then we have had very few meetings and very little progress," Miller said. The players' representatives came to Mexico expecting to at least meet with the owners' player relations committee, he said.

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, read a joint statement from the owners' conference in which he claimed Miller knew beforehand the players could not negotiate with the owners here during the winter baseball meetings.

"Very serious consideration will be given to holding a convention of all major league players so they can decide what to do next," Miller said. "They may want to take specific action."

Neither Miller nor the players said what the specific action might be. Steve Hamilton of the New York Yankees said there had been no mention of a strike despite the unhappiness among the players with the pace of negotiations.

"We still want to negotiate," Hamilton said. "I've never heard it mentioned," Cronin said when asked if he thought there might be a players' strike.

"I don't think it's a serious problem. When the player relations committee meets with the players I think this will be old news," Cronin said.

"We were told further discussion would be needed in Mexico City," Miller said. "The only reason the players are here is to conclude the negotiations. Now we're told the owners are too busy."

Part of the confusion was in the type of meeting referred to by Cronin and Miller. The league president's statement

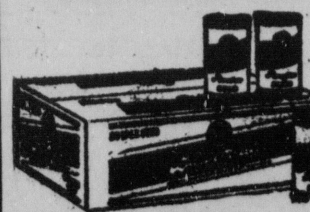

Miami, Fla., at Washington, Idaho at Southern California and Portland at Stanford.

With the exception of Boston College, No. 7, other teams in the AP Top Ten play Saturday. In addition to UCLA at Purdue, Sacramento State is at Houston, No. 2; Virginia Tech is at North Carolina, No. 4; Utah State is at Kansas, No. 5; Northern Michigan is at Dayton, No. 6, and Vanderbilt, No. 9, is at Southern Methodist.

Boston College doesn't open until next week.

S-C Tigers Win First Cage Game

By Kevin West

Smith-Cotton's Varsity Tigers defeated the Bunceton Dragons 50-43 in a hard fought see-saw game played at the Tipton tournament Thursday night.

First quarter action was equally distributed as both teams displayed versatility on offense and defense. The Tiger attack was led by Tom Munson, forward who scored 10 points in the first quarter. Munson, who was also high point man for the game, was followed closely by Dratten of Bunceton with 6 points. The end of the first quarter showed the Dragons ahead 16-14.

Second quarter's play was again tight as both teams subdued each other in scoring. Skip Torquist, center along with Dick Dixon, forward and Bill Woolery, guard, were the cornerstones of the Tiger rebounding staff. Scoring of the second quarter was mild on both teams showing the Tigers ahead 26-23.

An enthusiastic crowd composed of both numerous Sedalia and Bunceton rooters started the familiar chants as the game got underway. Bunceton took the tip and advanced down court to meet a more determined Tiger defense. But this did not stop the Dragons, as Warmbrodt, Dratten and Serck clipped the nets for 11 points between them. But neither were the Bengals ready to call it quits as they held on to the lead at the end of the third quarter 36-34.

With 3 minutes 11 seconds to go in the fourth quarter it was tied up 40 all. Bunceton had possession of the ball only to have it stolen by Munson who tallied for two. Larry Thomas, Tiger guard, also stole the ball but was fouled and put one through for S-C. Bunceton's Dratten pumped one for two, and Smith put a free-throw through the hoop.

This ended Bunceton's scoring as George Williams, Bengal guard, tallied for two and Larry Thomas with the aid of a 1 plus 1 situation at the foul

Bonavena's Promise Possible

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Oscar Bonavena's promise to knock out Jimmy Ellis in the second round of their semifinal bout of the World Boxing Association tournament Saturday may be partially correct — it could be a short fight.

Ellis who has used classic boxing techniques to build up a 24-5 record, has always been a fast starter, and there's been no indication from his manager, Angelo Dundee, that Ellis will do anything different Saturday.

The added ingredient that could bring the fight to a fast close is the fact that Bonavena's manager, Dr. Marvin Goldberg, says Bonavena will start fast too.

"Some people have been telling me to let Oscar start slow and let Ellis extend himself in the early rounds," Goldberg said. "But I'm not too optimistic about that."

"I want Oscar to start fast too. The first combination he lands will do the job."

Dundee has a different idea about the length of the fight.

"I can visualize this fight going the route," Dundee said. "Here we have two contrasting styles, one the rough puncher one the slick boxer. What could happen is both could nail each other early and then taper off."

Bonavena, the sturdy South American from Buenos Aires, enters the fight with a 29-3 record. The winner of Saturday's fight will take on the winner of the Jerry Quarry-Thad Spencer bout for the WBA championship. The tournament evolved when Cassius Clay was stripped of the title for refusing to be inducted into the Army.

Odrowski Turns New Advantage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the Oakland Seals are short-handed, hustling Gerry Odrowski can turn the deficit into a windfall.

Odrowski, Oakland's veteran penalty-killer, scored twice Thursday night as the Seals upended Philadelphia 3-1 for their first National Hockey League road victory.

The 29-year-old utility man shot the Seals to a 2-0 lead and they went on to snap a 10-game victory famine away from home.

In other games, Frank Mahovich scored one goal and assisted on another as Toronto battled Detroit to a 3-3 deadlock and Minnesota earned a 1-1 tie with Montreal on Ted Taylor's goal late in the final period.

Both the Flyers and Seals were one man short in the first period when Odrowski converted Billy Harris' rebound. With teammate Mike Laughton serving a penalty in the middle period, Odrowski stole the puck from Philadelphia defenseman Jean Gauthier and fired an unassisted tally.

Defenseman Larry Cahan added an insurance goal for the Seals before Ed Van Impe beat Seals' goalie Charlie Hodge in the final period.

Despite the loss, the Flyers held their one-point lead in the NHL West Division race.

Mahovich, back in the Toronto line-up after missing four weeks while suffering from "depression and tension," scored his fifth goal in the first period and assisted on Mike Walton's tying marker with 6½ minutes to play in the final session.

Walton's 13th goal, on a rebound after Duane Rupp's slap shot felled Detroit goalie Roy Edwards, sent the Maple Leafs within one point of Boston's idle East Division leaders.

Edwards suffered a five-stitch gash on his nose and gave way to reserve goalie George Gardner.

Pete Stelmowski also scored for Toronto while Bert Marshall, Dean Prentice and Gary Jarrett connected for the Red Wings.

Taylor's goal, with five minutes remaining, offset a first period tally by Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer and enabled Minnesota to snap a five-game losing string.

Canadiens goalie Gump Worsley stopped ex-teammate Dave Balon on a second-period penalty shot—the third unsuccessful free shot in the NHL this year.

Air-Bubble Candles Are Easy to Make

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Jean will be surprised to learn how easy it is to make candles with air bubbles in them. You need an empty milk carton, wick or old candle, paraffin and wax crayons if you wish to add color. You can make your own wicks by dipping twine in melted paraffin and stretching it out to dry.

I always work over spread-out newspapers so the mess can be gathered up and thrown away, and there is no spilled wax to be cleaned off the counter. Melt the paraffin in a can placed in a pan of boiling water. The can can be thrown away, but the top of a double boiler would have to be cleaned. Watch closely, as the wax melts and could catch fire if put in a pan directly over the flame.

Make a small hole in the bottom of a milk carton and trim off the top evenly. Run the wick through the hole, tie a knot under the carton, pull up taut and tie to a pencil that is laid over the top. Fill carton with cracked ice and pour melted wax, of desired color, over the ice. Fill to top of carton. Let harden several hours. Turn upside down and melted ice will run out. Carefully remove the carton with a sharp knife by slitting each corner and peeling it away from the candle.

For added beauty, I melt more wax and allow it to cool slightly until a scum forms on top and then take a fork and beat vigorously. When the wax is foamy, spread on the candle but work fast. If you like glitter or sequins they can be added while this wax is warm. I like white candles "frosted" with colored wax.—SHEILA

DEAR GIRLS—William added that if any water is trapped inside it may be removed by inserting a hat pin into the bubble. Mrs. H. A. says if one is not pleased with the result, remelt the candle and start over. Also she cautions us to pour off the water as the ice melts so it does not run over and make a mess.

I found that shorter, fat candles may be made in pint-sized plastic ice cream cartons that are slightly greased on the inside. A tap on the side and the candle drops right out. The easiest way is to use a candle stub in the center and pour the ice around it. It is effective to use a candle different in color from the wax being poured around it.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have some old phonograph records, by Enrico Caruso and Harry Lauder, and would like to know if they have any value for record collectors.—R. L.

DEAR POLLY—The gift I took to a bridal shower was a conversation piece and the object of many compliments. I had arranged narrow strips of ribbon going both ways on the top of the package to make checks about three inches wide. Into these vacant spaces I pasted Pointers from your column and the bride was delighted.—M. G.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carte

Connie Bunch, Norman E. Carte Vows Solemnized in November

Miss Connie Bunch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bunch, West Plains, and Mr. Norman Edward Carte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Carte, 2406 West Third, were united in marriage November 3 at Freewill Baptist Church, West Plains, with the Rev. Davie Combs performing the double ring ceremony.

Miss Jackie Sue Martin and Miss Janet Hicks played traditional wedding selections.

Large baskets of pink and white gladioli and tall candelabra formed the altar setting.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white satin overlaid with lace. The bodice was styled with a rounded scoop neckline and was scalloped at the empire waistline. Lacy scallops also framed the A-line skirt. Long, fitted sleeves tapered to points over her hands and were fastened with tiny satin covered buttons. The bride's shoulder length veil was secured to a tiny jeweled crown covered with ivory seed pearls. For her bridal bouquet she chose a large white camellia surrounded by pink roses with lace streamers cascading to the hem of her dress.

Miss Mary Carte, sister of the groom, maid of honor, wore a blue crepe dress designed with fitted bodice and A-line skirt. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a matching blue headpiece and she carried a single long stemmed pink rose. Miss Wanda Bunch, sister of the bride, candlelighter, wore a lace trimmed dress of pink dotted swiss, styled with three quarter length sleeves. Miss Belinda Brandt, cousin of the bride, flower girl, dressed similar to the maid of honor's attire.

Dennis Rogers was best man, with Dwayne Bunch, brother of the bride, and Duane Hicks, serving as ushers. Verlin Bunch, brother of the bride, carried the rings on a dainty white satin heart shaped pillow edged with lace.

Mrs. Bunch, mother of the bride, wore a two piece navy blue suit with black accessories. Mrs. Carte, mother of the groom, chose a beige three piece suit with brown accessories. A white carnation corsage highlighted each ensemble.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church. Miss Mary Verplanke and Mrs. Susan Hager presided at the punch bowl. Miss Becky Smith served the cake, and Miss Geneva Addison was at the guest book.

The bride is completing her senior year at West Plains High School. The groom is a graduate of West Plains High School, was formerly employed by Howards Construction, 1504 North Ohio, and is now stationed in Vietnam.

Santa Is Blamed For Commercial Christmas

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Help save Santa Claus!

For some years there has been an adult conspiracy afoot to dump the Jolly Old Saint in the nearest garbage can.

They are the people who complain Christmas has become terribly overcommercialized, has lost its real meaning, and blame it all on the big fat fellow with the white whiskers.

"We'd be better off without Christmas," they mutter, as the seasonal sound of "Jingle Bells" begins to jangle their nerves. "The whole thing has just become a big business promotion of hypocritical sentimentality."

There is, of course, some truth in what they say. Undoubtedly there is a high percentage of molasses in the sticky good will that inundates the western world at Christmastide. Undoubtedly a lot of business institutions—perhaps even the U.S. Post Office—make a profit out of Christmas, and a lot of employees earn big sums in overtime pay. And undoubtedly a lot of people get presents they don't need and, in return, give presents that others don't want.

A fellow has to admit also that the incessant din of "Jingle Bells" can weary even the most loyal ear.

But none of this is any reason to dismiss poor old Santa Claus as a pious fraud or a tool of capitalism.

Naturally he has his faults. In a time of overpowering conformity he remains a stubborn old-fashioned nonconformist.

No business luncheon club would admit to membership an oddball who wears a red stocking cap, red suit, and black boots.

Production-wise, his manufacturing facilities are overcentralized, since he has worldwide distribution but only one factory—and that one in a climate fit only for polar bears.

He refuses to pay tariff or customs duties and smuggles his goods across international boundaries.

Although he flies through the skies, he never radios his flight plan to federal aviation authorities.

He goes down chimneys asked or unasked, thereby committing the arrestable offense of breaking and entering.

On the other hand, there is much to be said in favor of Santa Claus.

For example:

He is the only grownup over 30 years of age that all children still believe and have faith in.

He is faithful to his wife. He has never had a divorce or been caught in a love nest.

He has a perfect safety record. He has never been in a traffic accident or dented a peDESTRAIN. You don't find many drivers like that, old or young.

As a boss, he maintains exemplary relations with his workmen. His elves have fine morale, and none has ever been known to quit or go on strike.

And he did it all without government help. Santa Claus has never so much as asked Lyndon Johnson or Congress for even a landing and take-off strip for his reindeer. What other industry can make this claim?

The fact is that Santa Claus is the biggest Horatio Alger success story in modern history.

Through it all he has kept his sense of humor and love of people. Like the One whose birthday is celebrated at Christmas, he extends hope and forgiveness to all, remembering the naughty child as well as the good.

STILL MEETING IN OLD SOUTH HOUSE

BOSTON (AP) — Old South Meeting House in Boston is still used for public meetings of civic or social protest. It shared with Faneuil Hall the Revolutionary War's most important protest meetings.

The building was erected in the 1700s but only parts of the structure survive. The line of march of the Boston Tea party began from this former church. The building's steeple rises 180 feet.

Nancy Prigge, Larry Harlan Exchange Double Ring Vows

In a candlelight ceremony at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, New Melle, Miss Nancy Prigge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Prigge, Defiance, became the bride of Mr. Larry Harlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Harlan Jr., the evening of Saturday, October 28. The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Norman Bahlow before an altar decorated with all white carnations.

Solist, Mr. Albert Bruenjes, uncle of the bride, sang, "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by his nephew, Mr. Edward Bruenjes, and Miss Barbara Apuin was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white bridal satin with long sleeves that tapered at the wrist. The fitted bodice, with round scooped neckline, was trimmed with lace and seed pearls. The polished A-line skirt had an apron effect of lace and seeded pearls, and the chapel length train was secured at the tiny waist with a large white satin bow. Her veil of illusion fell from the dainty crown, also of lace and pearls. The bridal flowers were a bouquet of fresh white carnations and talisman roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Daryle McMullin, twin sister of the groom, with Miss Avanel Harlan, sister of the groom, and Miss Candace Ficht, serving as bridesmaids. Miss Debra Harlan, niece of the groom, flower girl, carried a basket of bronze mums. All were attired in floor length princess line gowns of persimmon crepe and carried fragrant bouquets of bronze mums.

Mr. Dan Prigge, twin brother of the bride, was best man. Richard Harlan, brother of the groom, and David Bozada, cousin of the groom, served as groomsmen with Robert Dale Harlan II, nephew of the groom, acting as ring bearer.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the

Cuban Refugee Milestone

By THEODORE A. EDIGER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A daily airlift bringing a seemingly endless stream of refugees from Communist Cuba began its third year today. The "freedom flights" have brought 90,000 Cubans to the United States.

The anniversary of the massive migration operation is observed here as Cuban-American Day. A movement began to make this observance nationwide every Dec. 1.

Two airlift flights arrive each week-day at Miami International Airport from Varadero, Cuba, a beach resort frequented by American tourists in pre-Castro days.

Routinely, buses whisk the emigres to Freedom Gate, where U.S. officials process them. Then the refugees go to Freedom House to await assignment to a new home somewhere in the United States. Nearly three-fourths of the arrivals fan out throughout the 50 states, the rest remain to swell Miami's Cuban colony of some 150,000.

U.S. officials said more than 50,000 applicants—enough to keep the sky shuttle going for another year—already have been cleared for the migration and are awaiting their turn. Exiles say more than one million—one-seventh of all the people in Cuba—would like to hop aboard. That would mean another quarter century of airlifting.

During the first two years, the airlift covered enough miles to encircle the earth 16 times. There were 1,002 flights at 400 miles per round trip.

Each flight cost U.S. taxpayers $850. That adds up to $850,000.

Exiles invited President Johnson, who permitted the airlift to start Dec. 1, 1965, to ceremonies here, but he couldn't make it.

John F. Thomas of Washington, director of the Cuban refugee program under the Health, Education and Welfare Department, and Henry Taylor, State Department Cuban affairs coordinator here, will address exiles at a meeting tonight.

Miami Mayor Stephen Clark proclaimed Cuban-American Day. He said, "We hopefully pray that these inalienable rights essential to human dignity soon may be extended to all Cubans in their homeland." In schools, Cuba was the theme in music, art and compositions.

Now Meet Perfect St. Joan

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—She's a Keane painting come to life: a pair of huge brown eyes barely surrounded by a face centered by a button nose. She looks like a fragile waif, vulnerable to all life's slings and arrows. The thought of her playing St. Joan is enough to break your heart.

Genevieve Bujold may be the most perfectly cast actress ever to attempt the difficult role in the George Bernard Shaw play. She looks like the child Joan is supposed to be, and she is an actress of depth and sensitivity.

She will be seen as St. Joan in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production set for NBC-TV on Dec. 4.

Producer George Schaefer had seen her in one of her French movies "LaGuerre est Finie" and thought she was perfect for the part. But there was one problem: did she speak English?

It turned out that Genevieve spoke excellent English, having been born in Montreal and is now, with her husband, director Paul Almond, a resident of Toronto.

After she auditioned for custodians of the Shaw estate, and was approved, Genevieve learned the names of some of the fellow actors who would be supporting her in the production: Maurice Evans, Raymond Massey, Leo Genn, Roddy McDowall, James Daly, James Donald, Theodore Bikel and George Rose.

"The first day when I walked into rehearsal and I saw all of them," she smiled, "I had to hold on to a chair. But they are the nicest people. I know everybody says that but, honestly, they are."

She sees Joan of Arc as needing "a precise quality. It is rare to find an actress who looks 17 and can cope with the part. It needs a range of expression and a determination which she never loses. She's strong but her strength is the strength of a very young girl. If she did not have that youth she might seem a bitch. It's from youth and passion that she does the things you love her for."

Genevieve is not an actress consumed with ambition. "I have no aim. I take things as they come and I try to go through them as fully and as honestly as I can."

Viet Cong Units Attack In Waves

SAIGON (AP) — American infantrymen supported by fighter-bombers and point-blank artillery fire beat off wave assaults by hundreds of troops Thursday on a Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, where U.S. commanders believe the Communists may be trying to lure allied units into another major battle.

The action occurred as the U.S. Command announced the number of Americans killed in the war passed 15,000 last week. It said 212 were killed in the week, compared with 225 the week before, bringing the total American battle deaths to 15,058.

A mixed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese force fell back from the U.S. camp at Bu Dop under a storm of napalm and shrapnel bombs after reaching a seven-foot concrete cross in a Roman Catholic cemetery 50 yards from American lines.

Bu Dop, 80 miles north of Saigon, is four miles north of the Bo Duc government district headquarters partly overrun by Communist attackers Wednesday. It is also near Loc Ninh, scene of a week of heavy fighting early in November.

At Loc Ninh, the enemy was believed aiming to divert large American and South Vietnamese forces away from important rural pacification duties. Four U.S. battalions were moved in as reinforcements and the 272nd Viet Cong Regiment paid a stiff price—more than 900 killed.

Elements of the same regiment were reported to have lost at least 98 men in the latest fighting around Bu Dop and Bo Duc.

A single battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was flown in Wednesday to strengthen the Bu Dop camp. American officers said they were hoping to egg on the enemy to a massed attack in which superior allied firepower could take a heavy toll.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Bu Dop that enemy mortars, antitank rockets and machine guns opened up late Wednesday night. The firing from rubber trees 100 yards away buried three Americans under five feet of earth and exploded gasoline stores.

As 400 or more of the enemy tried to charge well dug-in American positions, U.S. planes lit up the area with flares. Helicopters began firing machine guns and rockets and Air Force jets dropped bombs and napalm. U.S. artillery shells exploded so close that shrapnel fell on American lines.

U.S. spokesmen reported 31 enemy bodies were found after the battle ended at dawn and Wheeler said blood trails indicated that large numbers of enemy casualties had been dragged away. Seven Americans were killed and 13 wounded.

Other South Vietnamese forces killed 130 North Vietnamese in a six-hour engagement Wednesday near Dak To.

Find Leads To Solution Of Vandalism

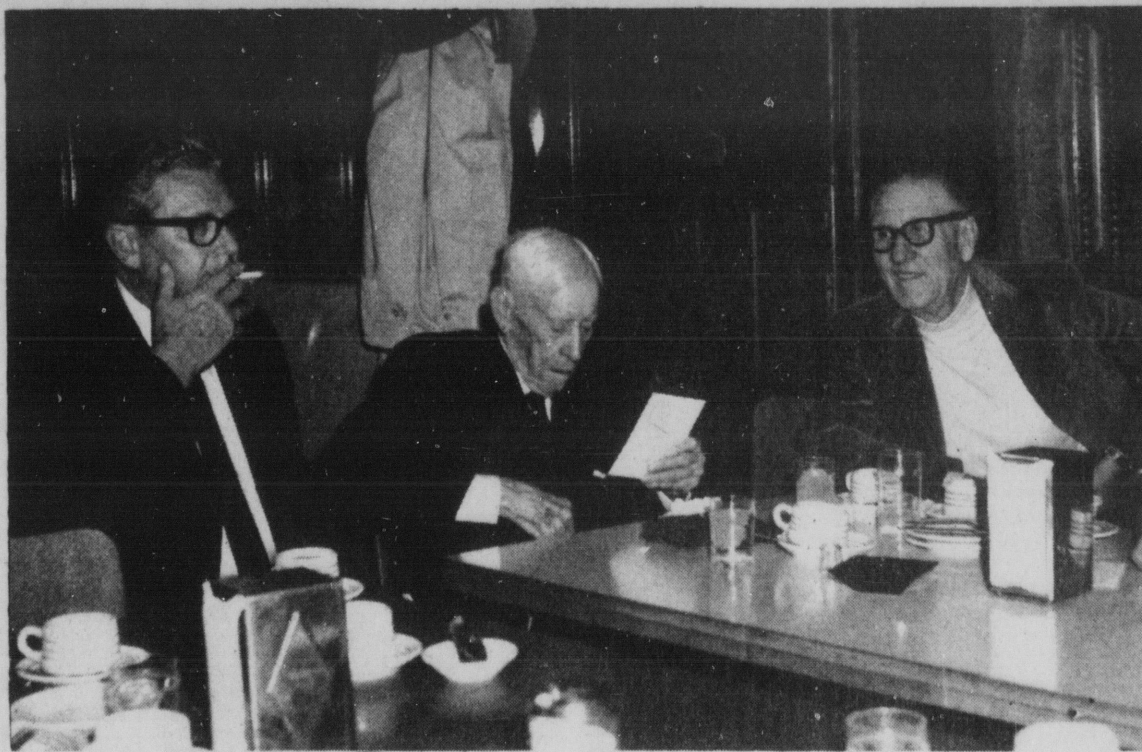

Substantial leads to a solution of window-breaking vandalism at Biederman's, West Highway 50, have been obtained, according to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax whose department has been conducting an investigation. Some adults and a juvenile are supposed to be involved. Further information about disposition of the matter will be released later.

The Biederman store had windows broken twice in one week, on Tuesday night Nov. 21 when two windows were damaged and again on Wednesday night Nov. 22, when several windows were damaged by gun fire. Damages at the time were estimated at $1,400.

According to information, Fairfax said there were supposed to have been four persons in a car on the night of November 22, and as the car passed the building, one person fired a rifle in the direction of the store.

No Tax Increase For 1967

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's tax increase proposal was ruled dead for 1967 Thursday, but given a chance of enactment next year—provided the administration cuts spending much deeper than it has yet proposed.

The verdict was rendered by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which controls tax legislation.

The administration submitted a tax-economize package proposing spending cuts estimated at $4.1 billion. Mills told administration spokesmen before his committee, elaborating for newsmen afterward, that the economizers should be able to do $2 billion or $3 billion better than that.

Such action, the Arkansas Democrat said, "would enhance the acceptance of a tax increase by the American people."

Railroad Merger Gets Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission informed members of Congress Thursday of its approval of the merger of the Great Northern Pacific, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Pacific Coast Railroad and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway.

The combined railroads will form a new company to be called the Great Northern Pacific and Burlington Lines, Inc. The railroads will have a network of nearly 27,000 miles of track extending from The Great Lakes and Mississippi River through the northern tier of western states to the Pacific Northwest and California. Through affiliations, the company's operations will extend southward to the Gulf of Mexico.

Congressional sources said the commission made its decision although its formal report will not be given to the participants or made public for several days.

Meal For Rats

VICTORIA, Mahe, Seychelles (AP) — Rats eat nearly one-third of this Indian Ocean colony's coconut production, so a 20-cent bounty was offered for every rat tail turned in on a monthly "rat tail day." The first harvest was 25,590 tails and the committee in charge raised a fund to pay for up to 30,000 next time. The second tail count turned out, however, to be 56,275, and 5,416 were bagged by the most zealous rat-catcher, who awaits his bounty.

Police Board Names Two Officials

The Police Personnel Board met in regular session Tuesday night with election of officers heading the agenda. Elected unanimously were Carl W. Yates, chairman, and Allen L. Hawkins, secretary.

Discussion during the business session included the current vandalism problem and the steps being taken to curtail it. Chairman Yates told the board that at the present time there are no vacancies in the local police department.

Santa House Is Prepared For Occupant

The Santa Claus house at the Pettis County Courthouse, facing Ohio Street, will be ready by this Saturday, according to the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, but Santa won't take up "residence" until Sunday afternoon.

Gary Cooper, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said Martin Goodrich supervised moving the small structure to the courthouse sometime ago.

The Letourneau Construction Co., Cooper said, had put a new roof on the house Wednesday. Remodeling of the interior is still underway.

Employees of the Junior Blankenship Construction Co., donated their time to repaint the house this week.

Cooper said Santa Claus would be at the courthouse from 1 to 4 p.m. every Sunday until Christmas and from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every weekday until Christmas.

McCarthy Will Challenge LBJ

Senator To Enter Primaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy posted his Vietnam war challenge to President Johnson Thursday, announcing he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968 — and hinting that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy could become the political beneficiary.

McCarthy said he will enter the primaries in Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and California, and possibly those in Massachusetts and New Hampshire as well.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction in America over the Vietnam war, its conduct and its effects at home, that "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

"I believe there's a good chance that we can win two or three primaries," the tall gray-haired senator said.

The White House was silent on McCarthy's announcement. So was Kennedy, for the moment.

McCarthy said his determination to run was stiffened by "announcements from the administration of plans for continued escalation and intensification of the war in Vietnam."

He said he hopes his candidacy will lead Johnson to alter that policy.

"If not," he said, "I think the challenge would have to go all the way to a challenge for the nomination for the presidency."

"I think that there might be a fight on the floor of the convention in any case," he said.

McCarthy described his Vietnam prescription as a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U.S. forces, with periodic efforts at settlement.

"As I'm sure I shall be charged, I am not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to this war," he said.

"I am hopeful," he said, "that this challenge, which I hope will be supported by other members of the Senate and other politicians, may alleviate the sense of political helplessness and restore to many people a belief in the process of American politics and of American government."

"I do not see in my move any threat to the unity and the (See McCarthy, Page 4)

Area Youth Dies In War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department named three Missourians Thursday on its casualty list.

Army Pfc. David W. Wooden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis L. Wooden, of Higginsville, was listed as killed in action.

Two men were changed from the list of missing to dead from hostile causes. They were:

Army Spec. 4 Lemuel T. Williams, son of Mrs. Lenora C. Williams, St. Louis; Army Pfc. Nathaniel Thompson, son of Mrs. Willie L. Thompson, St. Louis.

Dr. W. L. Tompkins Is Valley President

Dr. W. L. Tompkins, academic vice president of Kansas State College of Pittsburg, was today elected president of Missouri Valley College effective July 1, 1968.

He will succeed Dr. M. Earle Collins who is voluntarily retiring on that date at age 65 after 17 years as president of the 4-year, co-educational, liberal arts college now in its 79th year.

This action was taken today by the board of trustees which met in special session for this purpose. The board acted upon the recommendation of its presidential search committee which has been screening possible candidates since it was formed Oct. 30, 1964, under the chairmanship of Louis W. Menk of St. Paul, Minn., president of the Northern Pacific Railway.

This will be a homecoming for Dr. Tompkins inasmuch as he served Missouri Valley College as dean of the faculty and professor from 1953 until 1959 when he went to the Pittsburg, Kan., college.

Dr. Tompkins, a native of Delavan, Kan., has the Bachelor of Science and Master of Business Administration degrees from the University of Kansas. He received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from The Ohio State University in 1953.

From 1946 to 1948 he was assistant dean of men at the University of Kansas. He held the same position at Ohio University, Athens, O., from 1948 to 1950. The year before he came to Missouri Valley College as dean he was a research associate at The Ohio State University Research Foundation, Columbus, O.

Since 1959 he has served as consultant and examiner for the Commission on Colleges and Universities of the North Central Accrediting Association. During the past three years he served as consultant to Fort Dodge Community College, Fort Dodge, Ia.; Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo.; and the Central YMCA Community College, Chicago, Ill.

For the past three years he has also served as chairman of the North Central examining teams to Saint Xavier College, Chicago, Ill.; Lorain County Community College, Lorain, O.; Minot State College, Minot, N. D.; School of Art and Drama, Arkansas Arts Center, Little Rock, Ark.; and Bluffton College, Bluffton, O.

Threat Of War Is Over

Peacemakers Heading Home After Success

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece and Turkey spiked their guns Thursday and three international peacemakers who headed off a possible war between them over Cyprus either left for home or were preparing to depart.

Greek leaders were struggling with the communique that is supposed to be issued in Athens and Ankara at the same time. It is expected to be issued by Friday at the latest.

The task was more difficult for the Greeks, having given up more on the surface—withdrawal of illegal troops from Cyprus. The Turks surrendered only the threat to invade the eastern Mediterranean island where 420,000 Greek Cypriots and 180,000 Turkish Cypriots live.

The form of the announcement was important to both Athens and Ankara because of the steps which then must be taken.

These include withdrawal of some 8,000 to 10,000 Greek soldiers, infiltrated to Cyprus in small batches over many months in violation of treaties, and indemnity for Greek Cypriot attacks on two Turkish villages which touched off the crisis Nov. 15.

The speed of withdrawal appeared to be one of the more ticklish points to spell out. The Turks want it rapidly. The Greeks are not well-equipped to do so in ships or planes and resist any steps that seem to show undue haste.

Some quarters speculated that the U.S. Air Force may be asked to help in the withdrawal. There are three C130 Hercules troop carriers in Athens and each is able to transport 135 troops with equipment.

American sources said such a request had not been received but agreed it would be reasonable since Greece and Turkey are partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It was the prospect of war between the two allies, which would be a devastating blow to the alliance, that prompted NATO to send Secretary-General Manlio Brosio to mediate.

Brosio was joined by White House envoy Cyrus R. Vance and U.N. Undersecretary Jose Rolz-Bennett. The three hammered out the peace agreement.

Says Laws Should Be Updated

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Mrs. Eleanor Koch Rehm, Jefferson County clerk, testified Thursday "A complete rewriting and updating" of Missouri's election and voter registration laws is needed.

She told a special election law study commission voter registration should be on a statewide basis, absentee votes should be counted along with regular ballots, voting times should be uniform and a host of confusing and ambiguous election laws should be cleared up.

The responsibilities of county clerks, should be spelled out clearly, she said, and election judges and clerks should have clear instructions on their duties.

Mrs. Rehm also recommended that any county, if the county court approves, should have the right to use modern electronic voting devices such as the 1967 legislature authorized for Clay County on an experimental basis.

The committee took no action but Sen. Ormer H. Avery, D-Troy, the chairman, said meetings will be held early in 1968 on the special problems of the metropolitan areas.

One two-day meeting in St. Louis will consider the election problems of both the city and St. Louis County.

Later the committee will survey the election problems of Kansas City and the adjoining counties of Clay, Platte and Cass. Definite dates will be set after the 1968 special session convenes.

Another interim committee, on tourism, elected Sen. Richard Southern, D-Monroe City, as chairman and Rep. William Fickle, D-Parkville, as vice-chairman.

The committee decided to hold no meeting until the special session begins in January.

EDITORIALS

They Came and They Went

It's too bad a recent occurrence at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., couldn't have been given the full-scale attention, television cameras and all, that most protest demonstrations receive.

For this one just petered out and went away because it was outprotested and outdemonstrated.

What happened was that a group of seven protesters against the war in Vietnam showed up on the Appalachian campus from out of town and started to pass out literature and conversation designed to show Appalachian students the facts of life as the antis see them.

The students didn't buy it. Between 300 and 400 of them surrounded the antiwar group, tore up the literature and suggested that the uninvited visitors get the heck off the campus and back where they came from, but fast.

Campus police officers were called to keep order. But there was no real violence, no shooting or stabbing or rock throwing, no injuries. There was just a nice, loud, energetic, clear-cut difference of opinion.

The anti group departed voluntarily through lines of students who sang "God Bless America" to speed the visitors on their way.

This seems like such a simple, sensible way to handle such situations that you wonder why it doesn't happen more often.

This way, visitors are free to come. Hosts are free to urge them to go home. Visitors are free to go. There's freedom for everybody.

And not nearly so much commotion and whoop-to-do as when demonstrators mug for the cameras and heads are busted.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Enemies Planned to 'Get' McNamara

By DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Three years ago, Rep. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, the resourceful and able third-ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, called in one of the authors of this column and asked cooperation in a plan to "get" Secretary of Defense McNamara.

The plan included keeping the new chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, sober and using him to battle against McNamara, the civilian boss of the Pentagon, whom the generals, the admirals and the hawks on Capitol Hill hated. Hebert expressed the hope that this column would not report on Rivers's alcoholic binges.

Today, three years later, the hawks and the military have "got" their man.

The exit of Robert McNamara, only Secretary of Defense in history who has stood up against the military, came about on his own initiative, primarily because he felt he had lost his usefulness on Capitol Hill. He knew that the President sets great store on good relations with the Hill, and that enemies on the Hill were planning to explode three time bombs against McNamara during the election year. They were:

Bomb No. 1 — Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., would publish the bitter criticism of their civilian chief by generals and admirals.

Bomb No. 2 — Sen. John McClellan, D Ark., would continue his hearings on the TFX airplane contract.

Bomb No. 3 — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., showed no sign of suspending his hearings on McNamara's civilian control of the Pentagon.

These and other factors had caused McNamara to consider for some time retiring as Secretary of Defense. He figured that if he did so next year, an election year, it would hurt Lyndon Johnson politically. This was the last thing he wanted to do. The President has shown great loyalty to the Secretary of Defense. So McNamara made the decision to announce his retirement now.

—Doubts Over Bombing—

Other factors were also involved. In addition to his sour relations on Capitol Hill which he knew concerned a president who had served 26 years on the Hill, McNamara nurses a nagging concern in his own conscience over bombing of North Vietnam. He had gone along with it, but he had reservations, and some of his blunt doubts upset the generals and admirals.

He was among the very close circle of advisers consulted by the President about extending the bombing holiday this Christmas and New Year's, and was strong for it. However, since Gen. William Westmoreland's visit to Washington, the President has indicated he was not going to take McNamara's advice.

There has also been a running-fire series of disagreements with the joint chiefs of staff. These have not been abrasive or bitter. They have been sincere and reasonable, differences between men who had the welfare of their country at heart. But the hawks on Capitol Hill have fanned them into disturbing proportions.

The chief differences were:

1. The TFX Contract, over which McNamara got Admiral George Anderson transferred from Chief of Naval Operations to be Ambassador to Portugal. On this, McNamara was proved wrong. The TFX has not been suitable for Navy carriers.

2. Nuclear ships, which the admirals wanted but which McNamara overruled on the ground of cost-effectiveness. He keeps hammering on this. The military keep hammering on national security regardless of cost.

3. The anti-ballistic missile system. This also involved security vs. cost efficiency. McNamara argued that scientific progress was so fast that the anti-ballistic missile system would be out of date before it was built, that there was no use spending $40 billion on it.

A compromise was reached whereby we are spending $5 billion on a thin ABM system to protect against Chinese missiles. Privately McNamara still feels this is $5 billion down the drain.

4. Manpower. Westmoreland still wants more than 525,000 men in Vietnam, though he's taking this figure as the minimum. On this, McNamara is in the middle between the military and the President, who doesn't want to call out the reserves or increase the draft. McNamara, however, feels Westmoreland has been extravagant with men, used too many on housekeeping chores, rather than combat; hasn't trained enough South Vietnamese.

—The "McNamara Line"—

5. The electronic barrier. The military have contended this was foolish, tied up too many troops to build and guard it; that the construction crews and defending Marines are already under North Vietnam artillery fire.

6. The chief difference, however, has been over bombing North Vietnam. The military leaders have always pressed for more and more targets. McNamara has held back on risky targets. He has been flatly opposed to bombing too close to the Chinese line, or against hitting the docks in Haiphong harbor.

In the end, the generals and admirals generally have won. We are now bombing within seven miles of the Chinese border and the warehouses not far from the Haiphong docks.

The military complain that in the end the Secretary of Defense comes around to their viewpoint, but only after a delay which gives the enemy time to strengthen defenses around targets.

The joint chiefs are loyal to McNamara, and once a decision is made they stick to it. However, the differences have continued; at times they have run deep. Therefore, the only Secretary of Defense in history who has carried out the law that civilians shall run the all-powerful Department of Defense which spends two-thirds of the national budget, is now bowing out to the generals, the admirals and to the hawks on Capitol Hill.

Democrat Pickups

Taking a weekend trip the family stayed all night in a motel. The little boy wandered away for a few minutes and saw the maid cleaning up the room next door. Coming back in he said to his mother: "Are we supposed to clean up here like we do at home?"

"No, she told him.

"The people next door are," he said, "they even brought along their vacuum cleaner. Are you sure we're not supposed to clean up, too?" H. L.

The night before Thanksgiving a woman and her sister, who had come to spend Thanksgiving with her, were trying to get things ready for the dinner next day which all of their family planned to attend.

The woman had bought some prepared bread crumbs for the dressing but she didn't have quite enough, so she put a few slices of bread in the oven to toast. After they had toasted she turned the oven off and decided she would leave them in the oven until morning.

When morning came she lighted the oven for something to let it warm up and after a little while they smelled something burning. The toast completely burned up, and because she had to prepare some more they were afraid they would run out of bread so the sister made some cornbread.

Well, they got the turkey all ready and put it in the oven. It had been in about two hours when one of them thought she had better look to see how it was doing. She opened the oven door and looked in. The bird looked exactly like it did when she put it in two hours before—they had forgotten to light the oven. — H. L.

There's no solution that doesn't raise another problem.

Take the problem of young people facing the tremendous cost of a college education and one solution offered—loans from banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions.

Government-guaranteed bank loans to college students may be "creating a new social problem on a new basis," warns Chicago banker R. W. Foote.

"I hate to think of some of our customers who marry each other," he says, "and each of them will have this payment due the bank for the ensuing five years (following graduation)."

Giving even greater pause, "the female students who graduate with a student loan debt over their heads will not be an attractive target for the dashing bridegrooms-to-be, since the husband will be assuming their educational obligation to a local lending institution."

Reds Go Back To Guerrilla War

(First of two related columns.)

By RAY CROMLEY, NEA Washington Correspondent

Bits and pieces of evidence make it almost certain the Viet Cong and Hanoi early this year decided to gradually return to classical guerrilla warfare in South Vietnam.

This agonizing reappraisal apparently involved a "palace revolution" in Hanoi, in which Defense Minister Giap—the victor at Dien Bien Phu—overthrew his chief rivals in the close, tight ring around Ho Chi Minh.

For more than a year, Viet Cong leaders had been quarreling with Ho's decisions to stress semiconventional, big-unit battles with U.S. and South Vietnam forces. The same quarrel had been going on in Ho's inner circle in Hanoi. Finally, indications are, Ho was sold on the necessity of returning to protracted subversive insurgency and abandoning attempts for a quick victory.

The decision should mean radical changes in the war.

• The Viet Cong may now put heavy emphasis on creating "Detroit" and "Watts" type explosions on an ever broadening scale in South Vietnam's major cities and towns.

The Communists have been relatively weak in the big cities to date, their own documents emphasize. Their new organizing-recruiting drives may aim at slum dwellers, disoriented refugee groups and unsettled youth who have crowded into the cities, attracted by the bright lights and jobs.

• A sharp increase is probable in political assassinations in both the cities and countryside. VC terrorism could be directed against the newly elected village councilmen and hamlet chiefs. Increased terrorist pressures may be put on policemen, teachers, fishing and agricultural co-operative officials, youth leaders and GIs.

• A major increase in economic sabotage is planned. Details are not yet clear.

• A major drive apparently is under way to improve the quality and increase the number of Viet Cong underground political, psychological warfare and economic cadres. The aim here is to accomplish a major reorganization and restructuring of the Communist underground base for long-term subversive insurgency.

To accomplish this, the Communists are shifting some of their ablest men from mainline military forces and may send down men now being trained in North Vietnam.

Many of the ablest of the VC political-economic-psychological warfare cadres were yanked out of the provinces in 1965 and 1966 to beef up the military "drive to victory."

Under the new program, the North Vietnam military forces and the Viet Cong mainline armies would continue to be employed as diversionary forces to "tie down" American and South Vietnamese armies.

This would give VC agents the freedom they need to revamp and build their organization in rural hamlets, city slums and refugee camps for the long haul they see ahead.

Mike Gottlieb of Phoenix, one of the greatest bridge players of the '30s, was famous for his opening leads. He made them like a flash and, when asked why he didn't study them more, replied, "If I wait too long, I outguess myself."

West was not one of those fast players. He tugged at the king of diamonds and pushed it back in his hand. Then he fingered the queen of diamonds for awhile, caressed a couple of other cards and finally produced the five of hearts.

South looked over the dummy with no pleasure. He did not think much of his partner's three diamond response with one ace and two jacks and said to himself, "No more grand slams for me. Life's too short."

Then he proceeded to do the best with what tools he had and wound up making his contract.

It wasn't too tough, but he had to be lucky. He cashed a high club at trick two, ruffed a club and ran off the rest of his trumps. He discarded four diamonds from dummy which left dummy with the ace-jack of diamonds and three spades. Then he cashed his ace and king of spades and led out his last high club.

West felt like the raccoon who saw that Dan Boone had treed him and who remarked, "Don't shoot, Mr. Boone. I'll come down."

He had to discard before South and since he was down to three cards, he had to let go a high diamond in order to hang on to the queen of spades. South discarded dummy's jack of spades and made the last two tricks with the ace and jack of diamonds.

West had outthought himself. A king of diamonds opening would have cooked South's goose at trick one.

State to Reverse License Plate Colors

JEFFERSON CITY—State license plates for passenger automobiles will be reversed in color beginning in January from white on dark green to green on white, according to Howard W. Smith, director of Motor Vehicle Registration.

Smith said that the color for 1969 plates had not been determined, but that a decision would be made near the first of the year. Missouri changed last year from issuing annual stickers to making new plates each year.

The old maroon plates will be out of circulation as of Jan. 1, but a new maroon on white plate will be used next year for trucks and some buses.

Beyond local trucks, commercial buses and trailers will be displaying white on black licenses, while owners of historic motors will purchase a black on white plate. Missouri official cars and State Highway Patrol cars will keep their present white on dark green license plates.

Smith expects that the Legislature will vote approval of reflectorized plates in the 1969 regular session, despite the fact that a similar measure was defeated in the last session. The National Safety Council and the National Highway Safety Act both have recommended the use of reflectorized plates by states, and some already have adopted the use of them, but Missouri has balked at the cost thus far—about 25 cents compared with a nine cent cost for the current plates.

Another move may be made during the next regular legislative session to return Missouri to using two plates instead of one. The practice was abandoned several years ago, but law enforcement agencies have consistently lobbied for reinstating this practice.

The Missouri Highway Patrol has favored the use of reflectorized plates, but has not taken a position on the use of dual plates.

The use of annual plates is costing the state more than twice the amount spent for stickers—which were about four cents each—but the overall operation is expected to be less expensive and time-consuming since many stickers were often lost, easily copied, and frequently stolen, creating undue administrative problems.

Hearnes To Ask For ADC With Fathers

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has announced that he will include legislation to provide state welfare aid to dependent children of unemployed fathers living at home in the upcoming special session of the General Assembly.

The governor appears to be retreating somewhat from his earlier position that he would not introduce legislation which did not have a substantial chance of passing. A similar bill was introduced in the last session of the Legislature but failed in the Senate. Hearnes said, however, that a poll of Senators showed that it would pass if introduced this time.

The governor said an amendment adopted by the United States Senate reinforced his intention to put the welfare measure in his call for the special session. A special session cannot consider only bills except those set forth by the governor.

The Senate amendment would require all states to provide welfare aid to dependent children of unemployed fathers to the fathers also. Missouri only gives welfare aid to dependent children only if one parent, usually the father, is not living in the home.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Lungs Work Harder Warming Cold Air

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

In preparation for what may be a long, hard winter, let us consider frostbite and its prevention. Like burns, it may be classified as first, second or third degree. A first-degree frostbite causes redness of the skin and mild itching. This is sometimes called chilblain. A second-degree cold injury causes blisters and in third-degree frostbite there is gangrene of the skin and damage to some of the tissues beneath the skin.

The important thing to remember when you go out on a cold day is that still air at below freezing temperatures is nowhere near as damaging as an icy wind. For example, an outdoor temperature of —60 degrees with no wind will not cause as much damage as a temperature of —10 degrees accompanied by a wind of only 10 m.p.h. That is why the Eskimo parka offers such complete protection. The fur on the inside, next to the body, forms a blanket of warmed air. The oiled outer surface acts as a wind-breaker, and fitting the parka snugly around the head and neck keeps the warm air from escaping.

Another point to remember is that the colder and drier the air you breathe, the harder it is for your lungs to warm and moisten it. Too great a chilling of your lungs will damage them. This can be prevented by wrapping a woolen muffler around your mouth and nose or by using one of the breath warmers now available in stores offering equipment for winter sports.

Q—I am 83 and have had cataracts removed. When I got the lenses of my spectacles changed they used plastic instead of glass. Do you think they are as good?

A—Plastic lenses are equally as good as glass. They have the advantage that they are of much lighter weight and cause less pressure on the nose. This is especially helpful to persons who, like yourself, must wear thick lenses. The only disadvantage is that they become scratched more easily. They cannot be cleaned with silicon lens paper for this reason. Even using a dry handkerchief to clean them may scratch them unless they are washed gently with soap and water first to remove any grit that may be sticking to them.

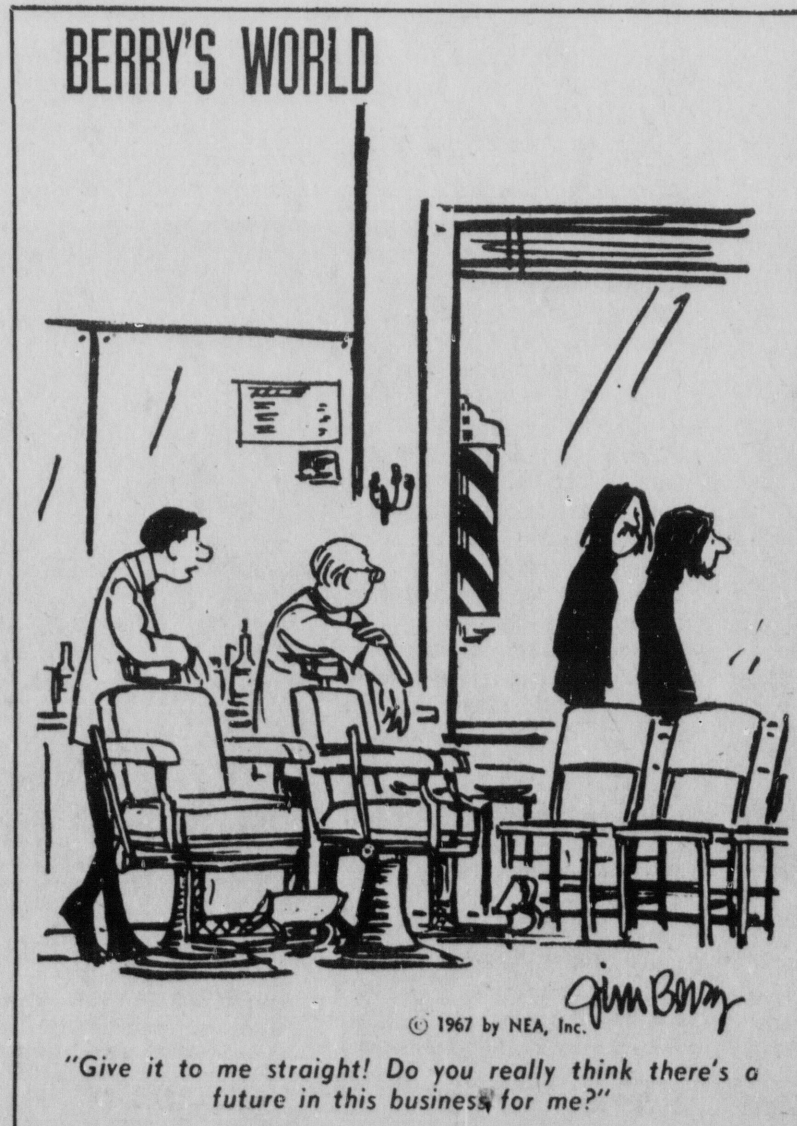

Q—In a recent column you recommended vanillic diethylamide for advanced emphysema. I have tried to purchase this drug but the local pharmacists have never heard of it.

A—This drug, ethamivan (Emivan), can be purchased only with a prescription.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q—I just sold my house and had to pay a penalty on my mortgage since I paid it up early. Can I deduct this penalty when I file my tax return next year or do I add the penalty in as a cost of selling the house?

A—The penalty for paying off a mortgage before the due date is considered an interest charge and should be included with your other interest payments when you itemize deductions. This penalty is not to be included with your selling costs.

Rats Exterminated But Smell Lingers On

By POLLY CRAMER

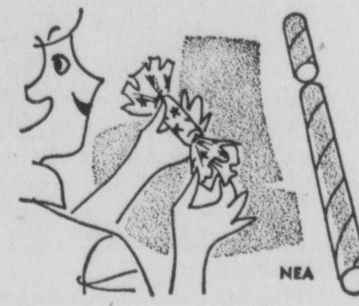

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Our house had rats which the previous owner killed with a commercial product. I had the place exterminated but the scent of dead rats is still here. I do hope some readers can tell me how to eliminate this rat smell. I am sure it will grow worse during the winter when the house is closed up. Sprays have not helped.—GRACE

DEAR POLLY—Do tell Bonnie that I have successfully used a screwdriver and pliers to remove gripper snaps from garments. Tightly grip the socket or stud half of the snap with the pliers. Use the screwdriver to pry the prong pieces loose. I have even straightened the prong pieces and reused the snaps.—DAVETTA

Polly's note—Bonnie asked for it so here is an answer but, unless time and patience count for little, many of us would do better to buy new snappers (if they are to be reused) as they are very inexpensive.

DEAR POLLY—Last year I cut the cardboard rolls from inside Christmas wrapping paper to make tubes six inches long. These were stuffed with tiny toys, little candies, cookies and pennies. The tube was covered with gay wrapping paper, twisted at both ends, fastened with green wire twists. They made lovely children's gifts.—MARY

GIRLS—We might all start to save tubes from various paper products so as to have a supply on hand. Each little gift in the tube could be wrapped separately to prolong the fun for the child. A nice idea for those gifts some of us like to have on hand for children who come to call during the holidays as they could be fastened to the tree to seem very special and removed when needed.—POLLY

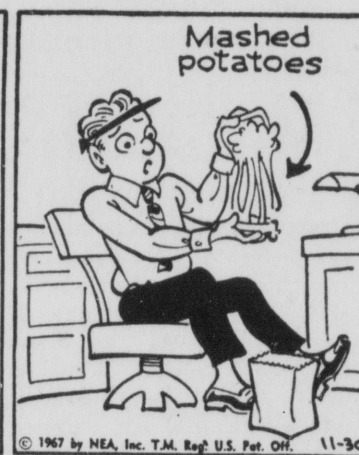

DEAR POLLY—An apron made out of outing flannel is a wonderful thing to wear when handling a baby. He will not slip off the lap and will feel good nestled up against this soft material while being dressed after a bath.

We have an extra closet in our home and there I keep all sizes of clothes that my children have outgrown so, in an emergency, I can be of some immediate help in supplying necessary garments.—HELEN

Import Fleas

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Spanish fleas armed with deadly myxomatosis germs as weapons are being imported for war on crop-destroying rabbits in western Australia. The agriculture department said the domestic mosquitoes previously used to spread myxomatosis failed for lack of fresh breeding water in the hot, dusty Aussie outback. The fleas are expected to multiply on rabbits alone.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — The fire drill called at Lourdes Hospital was only a drill but no one told the switchboard operator.

So when the bells began to ring Wednesday, the operator quickly phoned the fire department.

Watching bury firemen puff into the hospital minutes later, the administrator, Sister de Chantal, threw up her hands and said, "our faces are red."

Laborites Promise Support

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Labor leaders, who recently criticized as "dreamers" the architects of federal plans to start rebuilding the nation's cities, pledged today full cooperation with the program.

With past differences apparently forgotten, the AFL-CIO building and construction trades department planned a red carpet welcome for Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The appearance of Weaver, the only Negro in President Johnson's Cabinet, followed a proposal by the construction unions to help train Negro youths for slum rebuilding work.

"We should work with and help train these youths when they apply and show serious intent," said C.J. Haggerty, president of the 18-union group.

The question of bringing unskilled Negro slum youths into union apprenticeship programs has long been a source of friction between labor leaders and some government officials.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday Haggerty's proposal was encouraging if the unions will follow through with it, and might help keep the government from having to act as a "policeman" over equal job opportunities.

Haggerty pledged to Weaver "our full cooperation, our know-how, our resources and our manpower in the vast program of rebuilding our cities."

The government recently announced grants to 63 cities for planning slum rebuilding projects under the new multimillion-dollar model cities program.

While union officials conceded that the labor cooperation was still in the talking stage, they described it as possibly the beginning of a new era between the unions and government officials working on slum rebuilding plans.

Haggerty also noted that federal law requires hiring slum residents on projects under the model cities program and urged union leaders to be "practical men" in accepting qualified workers from the slums and helping train unskilled youths for jobs.

McCarthy

strength of the Democratic party, whatever the unity today may be and whatever strength it may be," McCarthy said.

"Only time will tell," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said of that assertion.

Mansfield, who has expressed misgivings about Vietnam policy himself, said he will support Johnson.

"Any defections in the party hurt," said Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said it would be helpful "to the democratic system and the Democratic Party to have more than one man under consideration."

McCarthy said he hopes to enlist delegate support in states which choose their representatives to the Democratic National Convention at states conventions.

McCarthy denied he entered the presidential race as a stalking horse to pave the way for Kennedy, the New Yorker who earlier had said he would support Johnson for re-election.

Kennedy said on Nov. 15 he "perhaps will have something further to say" about his announced support of Johnson in view of McCarthy's move. He has called McCarthy's candidacy a potentially useful step to take Vietnam dissent out of the streets and into the political process.

Could Kennedy fall heir to any support McCarthy may build in his primary races?

"He might," McCarthy said. "There would be nothing illegal if he or someone else were to take advantage of what I am doing. I have no commitment from him to stand aside all the way."

McCarthy said he would have been glad to see Kennedy step into the race himself. "If he had, there would be no need for me to try," McCarthy said.

Would he step aside should Kennedy seek the nomination?

"I don't know whether it would be a question of stepping aside," he said. "It might be less voluntary than that."

Student Talks To Kiwanis

An intimate description of family life in Holland was related by Miss Lois DeMott, American Field Service exchange student, to members of the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in the Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Miss DeMott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon C. DeMott, RFD 1, Sedalia, is a Senior in Smith-Cotton High School. She spent the summer with a family in Holland and also visited communities in five other European countries. She was among 1,300 Americans and 3,300 students from other countries who participate in the AFS exchange program each year.

Supplementing her talk was a presentation of colored slides.

Dr. Tom Norris was program chairman.

President-elect William Dugan presided in the absence of President James Giokaris. Invoation was by Major Howard L. Froberg, new commanding officer of the Salvation Army, who has transferred his Kiwanis membership in the Alton, Ill., club to Sedalia.

Roy Brown introduced Dr. Joseph Bennett as a prospective new member.

Garland Groom was a guest of Wendell Smith.

Robert Gardner called attention to the annual Christmas ladies' night party which will be held at Holiday Inn at 6:30 p.m. Thursday December 14. Members must be prepared to make reservations at the December 7 meeting.

Ed Kehde, Christmas parade chairman, reported the need for parade marshals Saturday. Nine Kiwanis members responded for the detail.

Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal with Mrs. Lillian Maynard, accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to Dr. A. J. Campbell, William Schien and William Dugan.

Wendell Smith is new editor of the Kiwanian Weekly Bulletin replacing the Rev. Cliff Saunders who has moved from the city.

Charles M. Frederickson, manager of Olin Conductors, will be the speaker at next week's meeting.

Increase

and maintenance of excise tax levels.

Together, these moves are estimated to produce $7.4 billion additional revenue during the rest of the present fiscal year. Mills especially emphasized the $11.9 billion figure, demanding assurances that the government would not simply step up spending to absorb it.

"Yes sir," Budget Director Charles L. Schultz replied. He said he would have to make a reservation only in case of a presently wholly unforeseen major stepup of the Southeast Asia war.

Later, mills said that Schultz's assurances on the 1969 budget were one of the more encouraging results of the current hearings on spending cuts and taxes.

Mills told reporters he thinks the administration's next step should be to appear before the House Appropriations Committee prepared to work out further spending cuts.

Because the tax-economy package would involve three House committees—Ways and Means for the tax aspects, Appropriations for spending and Government Operations for a proposed long-range study of government programs—it is impossible to complete action on it this year, Mills said.

Meanwhile in the House the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Rep. George H. Mahon of Texas, said "I applaud the administration for its resolve to make further reductions in government spending."

He said a resolution on expenditure limitations which has been tied up since mid-October by Senate-House disagreements might provide a vehicle for re-opening the subject. The senior Republican member of the committee, Rep. Frank Bow of Ohio, agreed.

Mills indicated he prefers the limitation method proposed in that resolution to the formula the administration suggested.

He said the actual spending in 1967 "should be used as a benchmark."

"There will be some departments that could not be held to this level," he told newsmen, "but so far as possible this should be the standard."

Application of this method, he said, should assure reductions in the current spending level of $6 billion to $7 billion instead of the administration-proposed $4.1 billion—which includes $1.5 billion of cuts already made by Congress in its review of the appropriations bills.

Car Crash Kills Camdenton Man

CAMDENTON, Mo. (AP) — Authorities said a motorist apparently died Wednesday night shortly before his car veered into the opposing lane and smashed head-on with another vehicle.

The coroner, Dr. T. W. Garrison, theorized Edward Hegerland, about 65, of Camdenton, was dead when his car crashed into a car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rosenhoover, also of Camdenton. Dr. Garrison said Hegerland was severely lacerated, but did not bleed.

Ralph Rosenhoover was listed in serious condition and his wife, Betty, critical at a hospital in Lebanon, Mo.

The accident occurred on Missouri 5 about 1½ miles north of Camdenton.
